POISON PAIR TRIED

GRANT DELAY IN HIGHT CASE

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Oct. 17.—Lawrence Hight, unfrocked Methodist minister of Ina, and his paramour, Elsie Sweetin, confessed poisoners of his wife and her husband, today were granted until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock to plead to the indictments charging first degree murder, voted against them by the grand jury yesterday.

The lawyers for both defendants, appearing in Circuit Judge Kerns' court when the indictments were scheduled to be returned asked and were granted the delay. Both the minister and Mrs. Sweetin immediately went into conference with their lawyers.

The court room was crowded to the doors and a half dozen bailiffs fought strenuously to keep the throng within bounds.

RUSSIA REGARDS WRANGELL HERS

Word of Seizure of American and Eskimos From Island by Soviet Recalls Decree by Tchitcherin.

(Copyright by N. A. N. A.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The removal and possible forcible seizure of an American citizen, from an island onw hich Americans claimed rights and endeavored to raise the American flag, was the cause of grave concern in Washington today.

While the news was received here before the opening of the state department office, it was anticipated that some announcement will be immediately forthcmoing. Charles Wells said to have been removed by the Russians, was a member of an expedition sent to Wrangel last year to rescue a party of four men and one Eskimo woman left on the island two years before.

This summer the American scholar Herman sailed from Nome on a rescue expedition to Wrangel. She was compelled to return without reaching there. For three years Stevenson had endeavored to obtain the island for British empire, but both the British and Canadian governments repudiated his claims. Previous to the Herman expedition of this year, the Russian government reaffirmed its claim to the Island, and rumors of the dispatch of Russian cutters to Wrangel were received during the summre. A few months ago Steffenson transferred his hunting and fishing rights in the island which he asserted were based on discovery and occuption, to Loman Bros., known as the "Reindeer Kings" of Alaska.

The Herman dispatched in the interest of Loman Bros., and for the relief of wells and the Eskimo was commanded by Captain Louis Lane, of San Francisco in his departure captain Lane announced his intention of raising the American flag in the island. This incident directed the close attention of the American state department to the island and developments have been closely watched.

From the beginning, the Russian government was alert in asserting its rights. August 22, 1923, when Steffanson was making claims in behalf of Great Britain, Tchitcherin handed to the British agent in Moscow, a memorandum in which he reviewed the Russian claims.

This note, which came to light today for the first time and never before has been published in America, was in part as follows:

"The government of the Union of Socialist Republics finds it necessary to state that the isle of Wrangell was officially incorporated as Russian territory and the Russian flag raised thereon, by an expedition organized by the Russian government and led by Lieutenant Wrangel in 1921-1924.

"Russian sovereign rights to the island have never been questioned by any other government, and has been generally looked upon as Russian territory. The year 1910, the Russian hydrographic expedition made measurements around the island and built thereon an iron navigation pyramid for the guidance of ships seeking entrance to the southwest part of the island, this pyramid being the first and only erection on the island.

"Finally in September, 1916, the Russian government formally notified all the allied and neutral government state the state the island of Wrangell, together with other islands and territories adjoining the coast of Siberia, constituted an integral part of Russian territory. His notification elicited no objections on the part of any of the governments so addressed, including the British government.

"Therefore the soviet government is compelled to notify the British government that it regards the raising of the British flag on the island of Wrangell as a violation of the Russian sovereign rights."

Landis Accepts Denials of Yde

CHICAGO Oct 17.—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, today quizzed Emil Yde, pitcher of the Pittsburgh Nationals, to ascertain the truth of newspaper reports in which Yde was quoted as implicating the Pirates in the recent baseball scandal.

Yde repeated his denial of any connection with the statements attributed to him, and Landis expressed confidence in the player.

After a lengthy quizz, in which the commissioner was joined by newspaper men, Landis dispatched a telegram to the Rockford, Ill., newspaper in which the supposed interview was first printed, asking that as much publicity be given Yde's denial as was given the original story.

COOLIDGE PLEASED AT ORDER SHOWN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—President Coolidge believes the Chicago campaign funds hearings have shown that the republican organization had adhered to his injunction to draw up a budget and operate within it, it was said on his behalf at the white house today.

Mr. Coolidge was said to be gratified at the orderly showing made by his campaign managers and takes it to show that the policy he laid down in his acceptance speech with regard to campaign expenditures has been scrupulously followed.

THE RIGHT DAY GOES FREE

Identity Mixup Clear, Judge Dismisses Slugging Case.

OTHER DAYS.

Charles Day, street car motorman, leaves his wife Sunday in their home, following a quarrel. Mrs. Anna May Day, the wife, weeps and faints. Alarmed Mrs. J. C. Black, her mother, runs to the house of Clarence E. Babcock, paper hanger and painter. Babcock goes with Mrs. Black to her home and holds Mrs. Day while Mrs. Black goes for a physician. Day unexpectedly returns and becomes enraged seeing his wife in the arms of another man. Before Babcock explains Day strikes him to the floor, then boots him from the house. Babcock obtains a warrant Monday for the arrest of Day, but a mistake is made and the warrant is served on another Charles Day, also a street car motorman. In police court Day is discharged Tuesday and is paid $5.75 by Babcock for the loss of a day's pay. A warrant then is issued for the right Day.

KANASA CITY, Oct. 18.—In the South Side court. The right Day is on trial. Babcock is chief complaining witness. Mrs. Day and Mrs. Black are witnesses for both sides. Day admits striking Babcock, but says he is sorry. Judge Ira S. Gardner announces he is about to fine Day $5 when Mrs. Black interrupts with:

"I sent for Mr. Babcock. He should not be blamed——"

"You should be fined—not Day," cuts in Babcock.

"I believe you're right," says Judge Gardner. "Mrs. Black is to blame for it all. If I fine her——"

"You can't fine me, Judge," interrupts Mrs. Black.

"Why?" asks the judge frowning.

"Because I left my pocketbook at home," she replies.

"All you folks go," voices the judge. "I'll fine no Day today."

Preceded Stanley in Africa.

The actual discoverer of the Aruwimi, the Forests of Perpetual Night, and the pygmies, says William Le Queux, relating a story about Henry Stanley, the famous explorer, in a book of reminiscences just published, entitled, "Things I Know about Kings, Celebrities and Crooks," was an unknow ship's stoker. When Stanley returned to England from Africa, this illiterate, uncouth stoker called on Mr. Le Queux, who was then an assistant on the London Globe, and the wanderer was seeking for a journalist to write down his African experiences, and hoped to obtain money for passage on an out-going vessel, unknown stoker, who had really intimating that Africa again appealed to his wandering instinct. Le Queux was interested and arranged an interview between him and Stanley. Stanley gave the man some money and when he had gone the famous explorer stood aghast, and at first could not utter a word.

"Only fancy," said Stanley, "that fellow has done all the journey that I have done and more," he gasped. "He was alone! He is a greater traveler than I have ever been." A few days later "Thru Darkest Africa" was published throut the world," says Mr Le Queux, "but to the day of his death, a few years later, he (Stanley) befriended the been the actual discoverer of the Aruwimi."

ROCKNE FORMULA SPEED PLUS BRAINS

HER BLUNDER MAY COST POST

(Copyright 1924, by United Press)

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—One woman's blunder, another's smile and two interesting personalities constitute the outstanding features of New York's gubernatorial campaign, on the outcome of which, many believe, the next presidency may depend.

"Al" Smith versus Teddy Roosevelt for the governorship, and if "Al" can win and pull thru John W. Davis with him, the democratic party may again take the helm in Washington. "Al" is running for a third term. Curiously enough, his opponent is the son of one who ran for the third term.

And because Smith is "Al" to his hundreds of thousands of friends, in the state, it was a boon to his candidacy and a blow to that of his young opponent when one Mrs. Grace Van Namee stepped to the platform of the Roosevelt train the ther day and uttered these words:

"Can any thinking woman hesitate, on comparing the candidates for governor? The democratic candidate, his hat cocked on one side, a big black cigar in his mouth, talking about the 'Treat 'em rough methods'—compare him with the man who is to speak to you today, the product of our American home and American breeding and the highest ideals we have to offer."

There followed a terrific repercussion from the opposing press. An example of the reaction may be found in this editorial:

"'Al' Smith did not go to Harvard like young 'Teddy'. But 'Al' Smith's home produced an example of sterling American manhood of which everyone who is not a snob or a social climber or a society toadier is mighty proud. In the annals of our country, we take off our hats to the man who climbs the ladder of life by his own inherent ability."

There is another woman whose presence on young Teddy's train serves to offset hostility and bring much favorable editorial comment as he swings through his campaign. Mrs. Roosevelt, a modest appearing, slender little woman, who refuses to make any speeches but who smiles confidently when introduced by her husband to the crowds. She echoes with a nod his slogan: "Every tub must stand on its own bottom." It is his answer to those who would say he is rolling thru life on his dad's reputation.

Then there is still another woman, a much younger one—who may influence this contest, but whose effect cannot yet be estimated. She is the young daughter of a Syracuse engine driver, who eloped with Al Smith, Jr., and surprised and temporarily rocked the Smith family boat.

But in the long run the big controlling factor probably will be the personalities of the two candidates themselves. And while "Al" is known from tip to beam of the state and the pride of the eas side, young Teddy can do his bit in "landing" a home crowd with some anecdote of a rough and tumble youth.

At Amsterdam, center of a large carpet making industry, the colonel during a speech described how he worked in a Connecticut carpet mill as a youth. He pointed to a scar on one finger and described the accident which occurred while he was operating an axminster loom. It floored the house.

SHENANDOAH SLOW IN ITS HEADWAY

Cuts Diagonally Across the Pacific From Point Arguello to Point Piedras Blancas.

ON BOARD U. S. S. SHENANDOAH Oct. 17.—(via radio)—Bucking a twenty mile head wind, the navy dirigible Shenandoah cut diagonally across the Pacific from Point Arguello near Santa Barbara Cal to Point Piedras Blancas flying at a height of 1,500 feet.

She rode above the ocean, sighting an occasional ship, as steadily as if the moonlight night were calm in the face of the blow.

She was not making more than twenty-five or thirty miles an hour.

Eight super dreadnaughts at target practice lay like a painting on the sea as the Shenandoah sailed 2,400 feet above them yesterday. The Shenandoah officially belongs to the scout cruiser fleet in the Atlantic.

As the Shenandoah approached the flet the decks of the battleships far below were alive with men.

Rear Admiral Moffett, aboard the Shenandoah, followed naval conventions by requesting permission to proceed on duty from Admiral Robinson, commander of the fleet, aboard the U. S. S. California. It was the first exchange in history between an admiral of the air and one of the sea.

"Thank you for coming over the fleet and a pleasant voyage," added Admiral Robinson in replying to the greeting.

Certainly.

"Man is a tyrant," declared Mrs. Fitdub. "Isn't he, John?"

"Really, my dear, I hardly——"

"Is he or is he not?"

"He is."—Bristol News.

Pacific Coast baseball league officials will meet in Seattle, November 18.

SHENANDOAH IS ON WAY TO THE NORTH

Passes San Francisco in Early Morning on Voyage From San Diego to Camp Lewis, Wash.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The United States navy dirigible Shenandoah, which was scheduled to visit San Francisco, passed twenty miles off the golden gate between 5 and 6 a. m. today and proceeded northward, without visiting this city. A desire to make up time, which was lost in fighting a gale, caused the ship to eliminate its scheduled visit.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The U. S. N. dirigible Shenandoah, flying from San Diego to Camp Lewis, Wash., was off San Francisco early today winging her way over the city after a night in the haze over the open sea.

The great cruiser, which flew across the continent from Lakehurst, N. J., in a trail blazing voyage, passed over the Faralone islands, thirty-two miles west of the entrance to San Francisco bay, at 4:52 a. m.

Thousands of people were waiting in the city for a glimpse of her, the first dirigible to sail up the Pacific coast.

FOURTEEN HUNDRED RUN

English Political Parties Place Huge Number of Candidates Before People.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Fourteen hundred candidates will be placed in nomination by the three political parties tomorrow, with twelve days of stormy campaigning remaining before the general election.

Leaders expect the conservatives to name 540 candidates, labor 510 and the liberals 350. With the house of commons consisting of less than 700 members, now that part of Irelands representation has been withdrawn, the predictions are that the result of the election will be in approximate proportion to the nominations.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Ex-Premiers Stanley Baldwin and H. H. Asquith, were to make the principal speeches for their parties tonight, but MacDonald lost his voice last night and may have to take a rest.

There is much talk these days of party war chests and it is apparent the conservatives are by far the wealthiest in this respect. The liberals are poor, while the labor party is depending largely upon volunteer speakers.

Lloyd George today stumped his own constituency in Carnarvon speaking mainly in Welsh.

SUSPEND DENNIS AND BROWN

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Dennis and Brown, of Liverpool and Havre have been suspended for failure to meet their obligations, the New York cotton exchange announced today. Davis Brown is a member of the local exchange.

SOVIETS TAKE U. S. CITIZENS

(Copyright by N. A. N. A.)

NOME, Alaska, Oct. 17.—Charles Wells, an American citizen and thirteen Eskimos, left on Wrangell island last year by Capt. Harold Noise, have been taken to Siberia by a soviet cutter, and steps have been taken here to ask Washington to act. The report of Wells' removal was brought here by Captain Castel of the schooner Aaronaut, which arrived from East Cape, Siberia today. Captain Castel said he was unable to learn whether the removal had been by force or by consent.

The Northwestern Alaska chamber of commerce has telegraphed a protest to the American department of state and to the Alaskan delegation in congress. Loman Brothers, Alaskan purchasers of Wrangell, hunting and fishing rights, claimed by Vilhaljalmur Steffanson, the explorer, also announced that they immediately would telegraph to Washington a request for governmental action. According to Captain Castel the soviet cutter which had the Wrangell colonists on board passed East Cape, Siberia, en route to Emma Harbor or Indian Point, Siberia.

Possession of the island has been disputed by several countries or their nationals including American citizens.

ODDS AGAINST LAFOLLETTE

Lengthen From 8 to 1 to 9 to 1, During the Day in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Odds against Senator Robert M. LaFollett's chances of going to the white house lengthened today from 8 to 1 to 9 to 1, according to J. S. Fried and company, Wall street betting commissioners.

De Chadenedes and company announced they have $100,000 to bet against $25,000 that President Coolidge will be re-elected, which are odds of 4 to 1, the best yet reported for president.

Both firms have plenty of money to bet at odds of from 2 to 1 to 3 to 1 that LaFollette would receive a larger popular vote in New York than the democratic nominee, John W. Davis.

Darnell and company have $25,000 to lay against $10,000 that the election will not be carried to congress.

BRANDEGEE WAS INVOLVED

Had Heavily Mortgaged Property in Connecticut Before Suicide.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Financial involvements to the extent of somewhere near $1,000,000 preyed heavily on the mind of the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut and led to his suicide, friends said today after a check-up of his affairs.

Brandegee's properties, consisting of local real estate and a large tract in Montgomery county, Maryland, were heavily mortgaged. Friends say he over-reached himself in trying to finance real estate deals and ultimately came under pressure for interest and taxes.

CONTINENT EDITOR RESIGNS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—"When an editor can't control the editorial policy of his paper it's time to quit," was Nolan Best's brief comment on his resignation as editor of the "Continent," a weekly publication devoted to the liberal element in the Presbyterian church.

Best tendered his resignation when the magazine's publisher, Oliver R. Williamson, of Chicago, refused to let him print an editorial commenting on Dr. Harry Fosdick's answer to the New York Presbytery, in which he refused to subscribe to the Westminister confession.

NEBRASKA DEATHS.

Dunbar—Funeral services for W. G. Money of this city were held here Thursday. Interment was at Nebraska City. Mr. Money was active in lodge work and an elder of the First Presbyterian church here.

Nebraska City—Miss Mary M. Groves, ninety years of age, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. F. B. Williams, here Thursday. Miss Groves was born in Londerberry, Ireland and came to America in 1836. She was the first girl from her Pennsylvania township to earn her own way thru college.

Nebraska City—Frank C. Nicholson, fifty-nine, local druggist, died Thursday at his home here after an illness of several years. He was born in Rochester, N. Y., and came to this city when he was five years old. He had been connected with the drug business here since the completion of his education.

IBANEZ STARTS CAMPAIGN

Announces He Will Publish Millions of Copies of Manifesto Against Alfonso.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Vicente Belasco Ibanez, famous Spanish author, announced here today he will publish millions of copies of his manifesto against King Alphonso of Spain, in which he declares Alphonso must be driven from the throne to save Spain from tyranny and to which purpose he has dedicated his life. Ibanez said he would distribute his manifesto al lover the world at his own expense and if necessary he will hire airplanes to scatter them over Spain to escape censorship.

ARMY AND IRISH MEET MANY TIMES

Notre Dame Goes Against Cadets Saturday With Best Record—Recall the Scoreless Tie of 1922.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 16.—Since the fall of 1916 Notre Dame has opposed the Army six times. Five of the encounters resulted in Irish victories and one, the bitter battle of 1922, ended in a scoreless tie.

Prior to this time the two teams had met annually, the cadets winning twice and Notre Dame twice. The series was started in the fall of 1913 when Notre Dame turned back the powerful West Point eleven on the Plains by introducing for the first time the forward pass. Dorais to Rockne was entered time and time again on the record books during that encounter and at the end of the game Notre Dame was leading 35 to 13.

Win Again in 1919.

The teams were on an equal basis for a number of years and in 1918 after Notre Dame had taken the third of a series of five games, the war prevented a continuance of the annual affair. In 1919, however, play was resumed and Notre Dame again won out by a score of 12 to 9. The next year, the immortal George Gipp ran 275 yards against the cadets, defeating them 27 to 17 in one of the most spectacular games ever played between these two institutions.

Rockne led his squad of players onto the Plains again in 1921, annexing his third and Notre Dame's sixth game from the Army by a score of 28 to 0. In 1922 the two teams battled against each other all afternoon, each retiring scoreless. Notre Dame was playing at its halfback positions, two youngsters who had jumped out of high school into line on Rockne's wonder outfit. They were Crowley and Don Miller. Twice Notre Dame worked the ball down within a few yards of the Army's goal line and twice the cadets were saved from defeat. Crowley, over anxious and bewildered by the greatness of the situation, faltered on the two-yard line, on one of these occasions fumbling the ball. The Army recovered and Notre Dame's chance had vanished.

Outsmart the Cadets.

Last year Rockne's genius and the fire of his charges turned back the mighty cadet machine on Ebbets' field by a score of 13 to 0. Notre Dame was outweighed, out outplayed and outguessed its older and more experienced opponents.

This year Rockne and his squad face conditions similar to those confronted by the team that successfully met the Army and Princeton on consecutive week-ends last season. Both the famous mentor and his men are determined to win and left their haunts here firmly convinced that they could fight their way to victory over the noted West Point aggregation. The strength of their opponents is duly respected by each man on the Gold and Blue squad, but the dogged determination of the Rockmen refuses to admit much chance for defeat, altho they admit the heavy odds against them.

LABOR O. K.'S NORRIS

American Federation Declares Next to LaFollette. He Is Outstanding Progressive.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—"Next to LaFollette, he is probably the outstanding progressive in public life," is the characterization given to Senator George W. Norris by the American federation of labor in making public the list of congressional candidates it will support in the coming elections, today.

John H. Morehead, democrat.
Roy M. Harrop, independent, Second district.
Edgar Howard, democrat.
A. C. Shallenberger, democrat.
Charles Beal, republican.

MORGAN MEETS HERRIOT

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Despite efforts at secrecy, the United Press learned that J. P. Morgan went to dine this evening with Premier Harriot and M. Clementel at a private residence in Paris and discussed the proposed loan which France hopes to float in the United States.

The West Point Cadets-Notre Dame football game at the Polo Grounds, New York City, October 18 will begin a series of important contests to be staged in the Giants and Yankees stadiums this fall.

KIDNAP MAN AND FAMILY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17.—Search was under way today for the unknown assailants of James Boggs, farmer near here who kidnapped Boggs wife and three children after beating him and robbing him of $100.

Boggs was found unconscious in his home which had been ransacked by the robbers. He is in a critical condition today.

No trace of his wife and children have been found.

RESIGNATION IS EXPECTED

Marx Probably to Quit Place in Cabinet.

TRYING TO REACH DECISION

Chancellor Accused of Lack of Ability to Act.

Ebert May Dissolve Reichstag, as It Is Agreed This Is Only Satisfactory Way Out of Difficulties.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Resignation of Chancellor Marx or announcement by President Ebert of dissolution of the reichstag was expected today.

The patience of both politician and the populace is exhausted, the chancellor and his colleagues being accused of lack of ability to make important decisions.

Everywhere it is admitted that dissolution is the sole satisfactory way out of the present internal difficulties and that a general election must soon come.

The cabinet met to attempt to reach a decision regarding its resignation.

BROOKHART FLAYS DAWES

Calls General a "Peewit" and "the Oracle" in Davenport, Ia., Speech.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 17.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart renewed his attack upon Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential candidate, and the federal reserve system in an address before a jammed auditorium at the Palmer school here last night.

The senator spoke for [illegible] one-half hours. Hundreds of people who could not get into the main hall listened thru loud speakers on the outside.

Brookhart prefaced his remarks with an attack on Dawes whom he characterized as a "peewit" and "the oracle."

"When Dawes came to Iowa, he rode in his special car on the Great Western railroad, the worst waterlogged railroad that touches Iowa. If we could squeeze out the water, there would be no trouble reducing rates for farmers, increase the wages of employes and still have prosperity, for every honest dollar of capital in the road."

The senator called the organizer of the Minute Men of the Constitution "the Mussolini" of the United States and said Dawes' real purpose was to take away the constitutional rights of the people.

He also referred to the "shake down" of the Iowa farmer by the federal reserve bankers in 1920. He enjoined farmers and laborers to emulate Ford's example and organize cooperative banks.

POSTAL CLERKS ENTERTAIN

Thomas Flaherty, Secretary of National Organization, Guest at Evening Mixer.

Members of the national federation of postoffice clerks, and the supervisory officers of the Lincoln office, staged a mixer at V. F. W. hall Thursday night in compliment to their national secretary, Thomas Flaherty. Representatives from Beatrice, Wahoo and Seward were present, and after the business meeting and addresses, the crowd of 150 enjoyed dancing and refreshments. Members of the carrier force were included among the guests.

Secretary Fleharty spoke for half an hour on the work of the organization and its fight for an edquate wage. Will Otte of Lincoln, who is fourth vice president of the national federation, introduced the speaker.

PULLED TROLLEY IS CHARGE.

Charged with pulling the trolley of a street car on O street Thursday night, George Babcock, twenty, student at the university, who lives at 1615 F, was arraigned in police court Friday morning and his case continued one week. The alleged incident occurred when students were staging a pep rally in anticipation of the Colgate football game Saturday.

THE "CRUCIAL" PLAY.

There's one in every football game, Tad Jones believes. It's the play that marks the beginning of the end.

Back in 1907 Jones recalls an onside kickoff which was used by Princeton against Yale. Tad was playing for Yale in those days. If that play had worked it would have probably spelled defeat for the Blue. But it didn't work.

Jones tells of this play, which he considers the greatest strategy he ever saw, in the Sunday Journal. It is the eighth of a series of football stories told by famous coaches which are appearing in the

WAS KNOWN IN LINCOLN

TRIMBLE WON DEGREE IN LAW FROM UNIVERSITY.

Man Who Answered His Wife's Appeal for Divorce in Verse Lived in City as Student and as Teacher.

Chandler T. Trimble of Omaha, who is getting considerable publicity thru replying to his wife's suit for divorce in poetical language, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska law college of the class of 1914. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. About five years ago thru the efforts of his fraternity friends a place was made for him in the university to teach a few classes in the department of English and also to prepare some general publicity matter. His connection with the university was severed after a year or so by a serious and prolonged illness said to have been brought on thru the practice of devoting to the writing of poetry hours that should have been dedicated to sleep. Mr. Trimble was considered to be a man of refinement and high intelligence but lacking in the practical side of life.

Mr. Trimble had married at the outbreak of the war, just before going into training, which interfered with his entering upon a legal career. When he came to Lincoln he brought with him his wife and little baby boy. Mrs. Trimble was prevented from mingling much socially with Lincoln people during the year and a half she was in the city, on account of the care demanded for her child. She was known, however, in university circles as a woman of especial attractiveness. She seemed to have the practical qualities lacked by her husband. The boy is now five years of age. Mrs. Trimble is holding a position as designer for a Chicago publishing house and has been self-supporting for some time.

According to an interview given out by Mr. Trimble, the couple had lived in Chicago two years without his being able to support the family. After his wife undertook work, Mr. Trimble returned to his former home at Omaha and Mrs. Trimble remained in Chicago. She has now brought suit for divorce with alimony.

"Legal phraseology was inadequate to express what I felt," he is quoted as saying, "so I mixed in a little poetry. Perhaps, at last, she will appreciate it."

"Ah, the hearts that have withered, seeking love;
"The deep paths of heaven are bright with their dust," he writes in one of the poems sent the judge.

HEARS COLLISION CASE

Alva Proctor's $15,000 personal injury suit against Albert C. Barry and Marie Berry, went to trial before District Judge Stewart Friday morning. Mr. Proctor asks damages for injuries received in an auto collision May 27.

Mr. Proctor in his testimony stated that he was driving his car southward on Thirteenth street, and had traversed two-thirds of the distance across the F street intersection when he was struck by a car driven at a high rate of speed by the defendants. He claims his car was overturned and his injuries resulted in impairment of his vision and incapacitation from his usual employment. The defendants allege contributory negligence.

CAN'T FIND CHILDREN

HABEAS CORPUS ACTION DELAYED BY MOTHER.

Took Children Home Thursday Night and Promised to Bring Them to Court But Failed.

The habeas corpus hearing scheduled for Judge Shepherd's court at nine o'clock Friday did not come off as scheduled, the reason being that the "bodies" that were to have been "had" were not available to the court or the officers.

Ruth Alice Lutz filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the district court Thursday alleging that her four children were being unlawfully held and kept from her by their grandmother. Mary L. Lutz at Auburn. Judge Shepherd issued a writ and Deputy Sheriff Hughart drove to Auburn, took the children into custody and brought them to Lincoln.

Their mother, who had not seen her children for some time, gained the court's permission to take them to her home Thursday night on condition that she produce them in court at 8:45 Friday. This she promised to do. The hour for trial arrived and departed and nothing was seen of the children.

A search was instituted by W. C. Periott, Mrs. Lutz's attorney, and by Sheriff Hensel but they could not be found. Mother and children had disappeared.

Mrs. Lutz claimed that her children were stolen from a depot waiting room on September 10, while she was away from them on an errand. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz have not been living together for some time. It was Judge Shepherd's intention to continue the case and permit the mother to keep her children until the case could be heard the first of next week.

STREET CAR CATCHES FIRE

Motorman Lawson Escapes Injury When Controller Box Bursts Into Flames.

Motorman C. E. Lawson, 1947 South Sixteenth, escaped injury when the controller box on a University Place outbound street car burst into flames at Twenty-fourth and O streets about 10:45 a. m. Friday. The exit of the car was blocked by the blaze but passengers remained comparatively calm and no one was injured.

Firemen from station No. 2 extinguished the blaze with chemicals. Damage which will probably amount to over $100 was done to the controller and motorman's vestibule. A short circuit in the wiring of the controller was the cause of the conflagration.

Bystanders said that smoke was rolling from beneath the car for a block before the fire was noticed by the motorman. When the flames burst out in the controller, Lawson slammed on the brakes and jumped out of the car to pull the trolley from the wire. Several of the more excitable and agile of the passengers opened windows and jumped from the car.

INTERFERE IN TONG WAR

Chinese Legation at Washington Tries to End Terror of Chinatowns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. — The Chinese legation here today stepped into the tong of war that has terrorized Chinatows along the Atlantic seaboard during the past week, in an effort for peace.

Local representatives of the fighting Hip Sing and On Leong tongs were brought together at the legation by Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister and induced to agree on a truce.

The document is to be formally signed later today and it is hoped, will put an end to hostilities in Washington and lead the fighting tongs in New York and other cities to call a halt on the shootings and stabbings.

SAVE THAT DEMOCRAT.

Governor Bryan happened to be on the train which brought the Colgate university football team here and as soon as he learned they were on the train he made himself acquainted with the players welcoming them to the west but stating under the circumstances that he was unable to wish them a victory. He finished off with a short political speech.

A group of four railroad men on a gasoline car pulled up alongside and when they learned the governor was on the train one of them shouted:

Governor Bryan, without hesitation, replied:

MAIL CLERKS IN SESSION

PRESIDENT OF THEIR ASSOCIATION IN LINCOLN.

W. M. Collins of Washington Meets With Local Clerks and Tells of Pending Legislation.

W. M. Collins, president of railway mail association of the United States, spent Friday with the members of the Lincoln branch of the organization. He arrived in the morning, planning to hold a session with the members during the afternoon and finishing in time to hold a similar meeting at Omaha in the evening. There are 140 members in the Lincoln branch.

In explaining the object of the association President Collins said:

"The railway postal clerks are at present greatly interested in the pending legislation adjusting salaries in the entire postal service. This legislation was considered in the last session of congress and after a thoro investigation by congress was passed with almost a unanimous vote. This legislation would readjust postal salaries so that the employes would have received approximately $300 per annum more than they now receive. The bill was vetoed by the president and returned to the senate on the last day of the session. It was not possible to secure action in the senate for that day and the legislation is now the unfinished business of the senate and must be taken up for consideration on the first day of the coming session.

"The president gave reasons for vetoing this bill, which reasons appear in the veto message. We do not believe that the president was justified in vetoing the bill, which had been endorsed by the public, the press and by congress. I believe that he was not given proper information as to condition in the postal service or he would not have given such reasons for vetoing the bill.

"There has been much agitation with reference to the readjustment of postage rates and it would seem that there was a disposition on the part of some to alarm the public unduly with reference to that question. The question of postage rates has been under investigation for some time and congress will probably give the matter attention during the next session. I do not believe the public should be alarmed over this question, as a very slight readustment of postage rates would place the postoffice department on a self-sustaining basis. I also believe that the question of proper compensation to the employes has no relation to the question of postage rates nor should the employes be denied proper compensation pending the adjustment of postage rates.

"A careful check of the situation gives us every assurance that the senate will repass this bill (S. 1898) when it reconvenes in December. By so doing the salaries provided in that bill will be effective on July 1, 1924.

"The public may not be advised as to the actual salaries now received by postal employes. The committee of congress which conducted this investigation, ascertained that there were about 234,000 employes included in the provisions of this bill of which about 210,000 received salaries of $2,000 or less per annum. It was also disclosed that over 192,000 of these employes received salaries of $1,800 or less per annum. Out of this

STATE PRIDE RALLY FIXED

DEMOCRATS INVITE EVERYBODY TO BRYAN MEETING.

Possibility That Lincoln Man May Be Elected President or Vice President Reason for Big Gathering.

What the democratic county central committee calls "State Pride" rally day has been fixed for Saturday, October 18. The committee is calling upon all citizens irrespective of party affiliation to join in the meeting. It will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening, at the auditorium, and W. J. Bryan will be the orator of the occasion. A reception will be held on the stage following the address.

County Chairman Sterling F. Mutz is to preside, and delegations from the university, Havelock, University Place, College View, Bethany, Hickman, Bennett, Malcolm, Davey, Firth, Panama and Emerald are to be present. Mr. Mutz makes the following statement with respect to the meeting.

"The meeting to be held Saturday evening at which Hon. W. J. Bryan will be the speaker, has been designated by the County Central committee as a "State Pride" rally The honor conferred upon Nebraska by having its governor chosen as a candidate for vice-president, and the possibility of his being president of the United States by some unusual turn of events, has made the people of Nebraska proud of its distinguished governor.

"The people of Nebraska have always responded to 'State Pride' and when they have had an opportunity to honor a Nebraska citizen, they have not failed to respond. No Nebraskan has ever been president or vice-president of the United States. If Governor Bryan should be elected to either of these responsible positions, it would bring great honor to the state of Nebraska, and a distinction that has never yet come to our state.

"We, therefore, call upon all citizens, irrespective of political affiliation to participate in this "State Pride' rally."

BLAZE NEAR OIL TANKS

Grass Fire Sweeps Toward Storage Tanks of Skelly Oil Company Under Viaduct.

Three large oil storage tanks belonging to the Skelley Oil company under the O street viaduct were threatened by fire Friday noon when a patch of grass just south of the tanks caught fire by sparks from a switch engine. A strong south wind was blowing.

Firemen stamped out the fire with blankets and extinguishers while a hose line was laid in case the flames got from under the control of the fire fichters. Piles of railroad ties and rubbish were kept from the blaze by strenuous effort. The tanks are located just east of the Lincoln Packing company plant.

REPUBLICAN BUDGET TOTALS $3,000,000

Butler Tells Committee $2,500,000 Needed for National Campaign.

REST FOR CONGRESSIONAL

Cash Collected Is Now About $1,700,000.

EXPECTS TO COLLECT ALL

Money Allotted to College Clubs and Negroes' Bureau Used for Literature, Speakers, Etc.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The campaign budget of the republican national committee totals $3,000,000, William M. Butler, national chairman, told the senate campaign fund investigating committee here today.

Of that sum $2,500,000 is to be used for the national campaign and the balance in the congressional and senatorial campaigns, Butler said. Cash collected up to the present time totals somewhat more than $1,700,000, he told the committee.

"How much more do you expect to collect between now and election day?" Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, asked.

"All of it,' Butler replied. "Three million dollars."

Butler outlined in a general way how the money was to be expended. Senator Caraway of Arkansas asked him to explain how the $46,000 allotted to college clubs and the $30,000 allotted to the negroes' bureau was to be spent. Butler said that the money was to defray the expense of getting out literature, speakers and similar activities.

"In your publicity work do you get out what we used to call 'boiler plates' and 'canned editorials?' " Caraway asked.

Butler, after stating he was not fully acquainted with the terms used by Caraway, finally stated he thought the Washington bureau took care of that work.

"In your judgment do you think it will take two or three million dollars to run the campaign?" Caraway asked.

"It makes all the difference in the world what kind of a campaign it is," Butler answered.

Butler said he felt that that was a fair amount for the conduct of this campaign.

"In the language of the street—money talks—" remarked Caraway.

"I think so," answered Butler.

Caraway then asked whether the proposal to raise $500,000 in Massachusetts, Butler's home state, met with his approval.

"No it does not," Butler replied. He explained the proposal to raise $500,000 in that state came from a manufacturer and did not meet with the approval of the national republican committee.

The proposed $600,000 in Pennsylvania did not meet with his approval either, Butler replied in answer to a question from Borah.

Nothing to a Report.

Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor member of the senate committee, asked Butler whether there was anything to the report that the republicans were raising huge sums of money to throw into certain states.

"There's nothing to that," Butler answered.

Butler then stated that the letter sent out by J. R. Grundy of Bristol, Pa., to raise money did not meet with his approval. The proposal to raise $600,000 in the state was sanctioned, he said.

"Why is it that you ask Pennsylvania to raise one-fifth of the total budget? Is it because you feel it is a fertile ground for collections?" Caraway asked.

"Yes, I hope so," Butler answered.

Butler then explained that the method proposed for the raising of the campaign fund in Massachusetts was not approved by him for the reason that it was proposed to raise money from manufacturers of that state.

Caraway commented that if Butler had followed the same basis for raising the funds all over the country the total would be more than a billion dollars.

"Oh, no," Butler answered hastily.

Butler was dismissed after promising Borah he would supply the committee with a detailed list of all contributions and expenditures within a few days.

George Barr Baker, head of the republican publicity bureau was then called and gave details on the expenditure of $437,000 by the bureau.

The publicity expenditures thru the Chicago office totaled $265,000 and the New York and Washington offices spent a total of $104,000 for publicity purposes, Baker said. The total is in excess of the figure given by W. V. Hodges, national treasurer.

Borah asked Baker whether the total publicity expenditures by the end of the campaign would reach $600,000.

"I think it will be under $550,000," Baker answered.

The biggest single expenditure, $65,000, was made for literature, Baker said. The sum of $22,000 was spent for 8,000 full page plates and 2,000 part page plates. Sixty-six thousand mats were distributed at a cost of $20,000.

Editorial to 3,000 Papers.

Baker said that an editorial entitled "Debunking LaFollette" was sent out to more than 3,000 newspapers but he did not estimate the cost. Mimeographing and the work of addressing literature cost $24,000 and the cost of writing the literature cost about the same, Baker said. With one or two minor exceptions Baker failed to account for the whole sum spent by his bureau.

"How many papers did you supply with editorial matter?" Borah asked.

"About 6,000 publications," Baker answered. He said these publications were republican and independent in politics. Baker said it would be impossible to supply a list to the senate committee, stating the

PHYSICIAN MAY PARDON

BUT JAILER DOESN'T HAVE TO RELEASE PRISONERS.

Little Known Law That Even Attorney General Hadn't Heard About Brought Release to Gypsies.

It was news to George W. Ayres, asssitant attorney general, to learn that there is a law on the statute books that gives what is practically a pardoning power to county physicians in the state. Mr. Ayres has been connected with the attorney general's office for many years and handled most of the criminal cases appealed.

This law was invoked to secure the release from the county jail two days after they had been sent there of two women members of the gypsy caravan who were convicted of a larceny charge. Sheriff Hensel said it was an old law, and had been used before. Investigation shows that he is right about its antiquity. It has been on the books ever since 1873, the year of the great crime. It reads as follows:

"Section 10,208. When the physician regularly employed to have the medical care of persons in a county jail shall certify in writing to the jailer that the health or safety of any convict confined in such jail requires that he be treated in a manner different from that prescribed by the sentence of such convict, such jailer shall render to the convict such other and different treatment as shall be specified in such certificate as necessary, and may discharge him altogether if required by such certificate; provided, such physician be one employed for such medical care by the approval of the county board."

Mr. Ayres points out that this falls short of granting the county physician full pardoning power because it leaves it optional with the jailer whether to free a prisoner recommended for discharge by the county physician or to keep him or her in custody. The annual character of the law is that it does not provide for any court action where such release may be made a matter of record.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR CRASH

Minnie Grote Files Action Against Bertha Green to Recover $25,000.

Minnie Grote filed a $25,000 personal injury suit against Bertha Green in the district court Friday forenoon, for damages sustained in an auto collision at Fifty-sixth and A streets, September 28.

The plaintiff alleges that she was riding in a Ford touring car as the passenger of John Roteschafer and that as they attempted to cross the intersection a car driven by the defendant, crashed into them and upset their car, permanently injuring the plaintiff.

DAVIS TAKES UP TRAINING

PRIZE FIGHT MANAGER OVERSEES DAILY DOZEN.

LaFollette Accompanied by a Throat Specialist and Is Watched by Sons for Over-Exertion.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Behind the scenes the picture of this presidential campaign is just the opposite to what everyone believes it to be.

Hurtling thru the night over the prairies of Illinois, a special train bearing the caravan of John W. Davis, the democratic nominee. In the baggage car are a corps of stenographers, whaling away at a mimeograph machine turning out the evening's speech. In the next car newspaper men are hammering at baby portable typewirters, writing "the politics of the situation."

In his private car, John W. Davis is doing his nightly dozen to the prompting of Jim Cullen, the prize fight manager who primed Bill Brennan, the late pugilist, for scores of ring battles over a period of six years. It is "Davis, the fighter" training for the next day's battle.

In another train thru the endless wheat fields of the Dakotas is a far different picture. The stenographers are there, the newspaper men are there, but in the private car that swings on the end sits Robert M. LaFollette, nearly seventy yeara old, with his sons Phillip and Robert, jr., and other advisers grouped around a table in a smoke-filled compartment.

His physician, Dr. Colver, a throat specialist, is asleep in an adjoining cupboard-like room, while his patient—whom some have said would break under the strain of incessant campaigning—is staying up planning the morrow's battles. It is LaFollette, the careful politiican.

"I think I could match Davis with Jack Dempsey tomorrow," Cullen told the United Press.

"Senator LaFollette's health shows not the slightest impairment and his condition is perfect," Dr. Colver says.

Traveling with each of the candidates in their camapign has developed evidences of their opposing tactics. LaFollette prepares set speeches and he reads from his manuscripts with his sons near to see that he does not unwittingly over-exert himself. Davis speaks without preparation. He sizes up his audience when he goes before them and in a few moments decides upon his methods of attack.

On the platform LaFollette is full of fire. Davis is quiet and careful of his diction. His advisers recently accused him of a "supreme court manner" and asked him to "take off his kid gloves." But his answer was: "I am not that kind of a campaigner and I don't want to be that kind of a president."

But behind the scenes their positions are reversed and Davis will go on sparring with his prize fighter masseur and LaFollette threshing out "the dope" with his keen witted sons.

CHANG'S TROOPS OCCUPY THE GATEWAY CITY.

Manchu Detachment Reported Chasing Wu's Troops Toward Chin Wang Tao, Japs Report.

OSAKA, Japan, Oct. 17.—Chang Tso Lin's Manchurian troops completely occupied Shan Hai Kwan, gateway city in the great wall of China, today and captured 1,000 Chi Li troops, according to Mukden dispatches.

A Manchu detachment is reported pursuing Wu Pei Fu's troops toward Chin Wang Tao.

In connection with the above dispatch, it is well to recall that Japanese sympathies are with Chang Tso Lin and that Mukden, whence the report comes, is the Manchurian war lord's headquarters.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 17.—Gen. Sun Chuan Fang, war lord of Fukien, occupied Shanghai this afternoon and assumed control of the military district.

(Fang has been a lieutenant of General Chi Hsieh Yuan, Kiangsu dictator and learer of the allied Kiangsu-Fukien troops, which defeated General Lu Yung Hsiang and captured Shanghai.)

The danger in Shanghai was considered ended but the population still was panicky and a thousand fearful civilians rushed the barbed wire entanglements around the foreign quarter during the afternoon. Many women and children were trampled before guards finally drove them back.

Fire damaged the Astor House, largest foreign hotel in Shanghai, early today. Hundreds of Chinese servants dashed from the burning building shouting that forces of Little Hsu, the Anfu leader were attacking the hotel. This caused a panic among the guests who fled into the street in night clothes and were unable to return for their belongings.

Negotiations are continuing for the surrender of 10,000 of the defeated Chekiang troops of General Lu Still encamped outside Shanghai They are expected to lay down their arms tomorrow.

PARTY IS NON-EXISTENT

Wheeler Appeals to Democratic Voters in Texas to Support Independent Ticket.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 17.—"The party, for the moment, is almost non-existent in the west," Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent vice presidential candidate, declared in his first Texas address here last night in which he appealed to democratic voters to support the independent ticket.

Wheeler classed the leaders of both major parties as "figureheads of Wall street," and predicted that the third party would have the support of progressives of both divisions.

"There must be a progressive party in this country to resist the reactionary republican party. It rests with the rank and file of democrats to say whether that party shall be the democratic party," Wheeler declared adding the charge that "democratic party managers were attempting to make their party merely a subsidiary of the republican."

The candidate was scheduled to make a speech at Dalhart, today, and spend Saturday at Wichita, Kansas.

PAYING BANK DEPOSITORS

$73,000 in Claims to Be Paid by Order of Judge of District Court.

An order of court for the payment of $73,000 to depcsitors of the failed Security State Bank of McGrew is being compiled with by the state banking department. The court order was issued by Judge P. J. Barron of Scottsbluff county, October 6. The order directed Receiver H. C. Peterson of Chappell to issue reeciver's certificates. These were received by the state banking bureau Friday and immediately certified to K. C. Knudson, secretary of the department of trade and commerce, that the certificates are payable out of funds available for such purpose received from the assets of the failed bank or from funds received from the depositor's guaranty fund.

The banking department is forwarding the money to Receiver H. C. Peterson who in turn will forward it to different depositors immediately.

ADVOCATES GASOLINE TAX

Rotarian Head Tells Columbus Club of Its Benefits.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Oct. 17.—Judge Rofelty, governor of the Nebraska and South Dakota Rotarian district, addressed the Columbus Rotary club Wednesday evening. In his talk he urged that all Rotarians get behind the movement for better roads in Nebraska. He said that Nebraska ranked far above South Dakota in many ways but insisted that Nebraska is six years behind his home state in the matter of good roads.

He strongly endorsed the South Dakota law which puts a tax of two cents per gallon on all gasoline sold in that state, the tax being used in bettering the highways of the state. He declared that it is impossible for any state to carry out a worth while road building and road maintaining program without such a tax. He said that South Dakota as a whole is strong in favor of the tax, so much so that at the next session of the state legislature it is proposed to increase the tax to three cens.

What You Should Know about a baby's care

Illness is usually due to constipation. Quickly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

THE young mother should watch which foods the baby relishes most, which foods and their quantity cause distress, and act accordingly.

The good health of a baby is largely a matter of intelligent attention to diet. Nevertheless, in spite of your efforts you will sometimes notice belching, flatulence, wind and symptoms of colicky pain.

Give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and thereafter vary the offending food. Syrup Pespin is a laxative admirably suited to infants and children, as it is mild and wholly free from opiates and narcotics.

If you delay in giving it you will soon find the baby suffering from constipation, and that may lead to more serious illness. Half a teaspoonful promptly given will avoid trouble.

Many thousands of mothers have never given their babies any other medicine but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they have successfully raised large and sturdy families. The formula is not a secret, being a combination of Egyptian senna with pepsin, and agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. Mrs. Dewey Walker, Elida, N. M., and Mrs. B. Higginbotham, Otter Creek, Fla., are among the many who are firm believers that Syrup Pepsin has kept their families and themselves in good health.

No family with young children can afford to be without such a household medicine. It is effective, beneficial and safe regardless of your age and has been considered so for over thirty years. In consequence it is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually.

You will find that Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief in the severest chronic constipation, in biliousness, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, headache, cankers, bad breath, and to stop a cold or fever.

Every druggist sells it, and the cost on the average is less than a cent a dose. It is guaranteed to be effective in these symptoms or your money will be refunded.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

"But the Patient Died."

The charity bridge I attended the other day was a great success.

Everyone appeared to have a good time. Except of course the inevitable exceptions; the woman who would have won the prize if her partner hadn't made a fool play; the woman whose partner tried to show her how to play; the woman who found she was too much overdressed.

The house looked charming.

The eats were delicious; there was more than anyone could eat, salads and ices, and little cakes, and iced coffee with thick whipped cream.

The prizes were numerous and choice.

An Unimportant Detail.

Absolutely the only thing that wasn't entirely satisfactory was the proceeds. They weren't quite as large as were hoped. But then, as one of the members of the committee said, the hospital for which it was given would, of course, be pleased at any sum even if it was small. They didn't have to work for it and they couldn't look a gift horse in the mouth.

Which is undeniable. But the giver can look his gift horse in the mouth and one wonders sometimes that he doesn't do so and isn't a bit embarrassed at what he sees.

Of course there is no reason that one should not mix charity and a good time when that can be done. You can catch more flies with molasses than you can with vinegar, and a charity bridge is thick molasses compared with the vinegar of a subscription list. And if you can have a good time while you are doing good why so much the better for all concerned.

A Little Better Proportion.

But it does seem as if the good time ought not to be out of all proportion to the good done.

Why not tea, and sandwiches, or toast, or little cakes, instead of all that elaborate food? Such a repast would have supplied the sociability that always comes with eating and would have been much better for us, as we are not of the class who eat an 8 o'clock dinner, and salad and ices at quarter of 5 do not conduce to appetite an hour and a half later.

$50,000 for Luncheons But—

There is a most interesting article in one of the current magazines on the high cost of conventioning in which the writer tells of luncheon or "breakfasts" held in New York at $4 or $5 a plate, and attended by thousands of women "In a single month there were nine such luncheons held in New York alone. These were attended by 12,000 women who paid $4 or $5 a plate, a total of more than $50,000.

"Now, set out to raise $50,000 among these same women," comments the author, "for some cause indorsed by the convention and you'd find it no easy task."

And in another magazine there is an article on the amount of work that goes into charity bazaars and dramatics, and the comparative little in the way of money that comes out of them. If you reckoned the cost of the time at even a very small sum per hour it would bring ten times the net proceeds.

I think when we send out our tickets for the charity bridge or the charity bazaar we should be more honest if we printed the "charity" in diamond type and the "bridge" or the "bazaar" in great primer type.

LAFOLLETTE IN A DENIAL

NOT RECEIVING MONEY FROM RUSSIA THRU MEXICO.

Charged by Chairman O'Connor of Shipping Board With Outside Aid in His Campaign.

EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR LaFOLLETTE TO SIOUX FALLS, S. D., ct. 17.—Senator LaFollette independent candidate for president today denied charges by T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, that money is being sent from Russia thru Mexico to help the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

"So far as campaing contribution or sources of party funds are concerned I have absolute knowledge and I emphatically deny O'Connor's statement," LaFollette declared.

"I denounce it as a wilful and malicious campaign lie. It is of a piece with other loose and untruthful statements made by desperate Coolidge henchmen.

LaFollette said he is telegraphing Frank P. Walsh, his representative before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures at Chicago requesting that he have O'Connor subpoenaed and examined under oath before the committee and asked as to two things:

1—His alleged evidence of campaign contributions to the LaFollette Wheeler ticket.

2—His payment of expenses "of the hired audience of fake labor leaders delivered f. o. b. white house to listen to President Coolidge's labor day address."

Senator LaFollette crossed into South Dakota today, planning to make one speech tonight at Sioux Falls. As he has been on the road nearly two weeks, he plans to make this his last speech this week, resting until his Omaha address Monday night.

The independent candidate's attack on President Coolidge in an address at Minneapolis last night was the most severe he has yet made.

LaFollette criticized the president for his toleration of Daugherty, Denby and others after he became president. He referred to newspaper reports that the Coolidges before they moved into the white house, were frequent guests at Ned McLean's Sunday morning breakfasts where Daugherty and Fall were often present.

LaFollette was introduced by Former Governor John Lind, democrat and special envoy to Mexico under the late President Wilson. Senator Magnus Johnson, farmer-laborite, sat on the platform.

WILL DIGEST EVIDENCE

Commission to Decide About Joint Rates on Sand and Gravel Later On.

Sand miners in Nebraska were not a unit in support of the notion that joint rates would help the consumer or anybody else, when they got their chance before the state railway commission Thursday to express an opinion on this proposal of the commission. Those who were so situated that they can serve any consuming center of any prominence thought that the present situation ought not to be disturbed, while some who are not so happily situated, but who must use more than one railroad in getting to a point of delivery, argued for changes in the present arrangement of schedules.

The commission will digest the evidence later. Its object in starting the inquiry was to ascertain if joint rates, which would mean a reduction of the present rates where more than one road is involved in the haul, would lead to a wider use of this material, especially in road making. Under present schedules, when the cost is over 6 cents, it does not move.

Publicity.

We'll pay our income tax next year with feelings of disgust and fear, for all our names will be displayed, together with the sums we've paid. The list must hang, it's been decreed, where he who runs may deftly read. Then all the gold brick men, I wist, will gather round to read the list, and copies they will make and file, to guide them in their work of guile. And if we're bothered now by sharks who size us up as easy marks, who ring our doorbells every day, returning when they're shooed away, who tag behind us everywhere, and fill our lives with dole and care, what shall we do in days to come when placards advertise the sum each delegate was made to dig? The future with despair looks big. Promoters then will put on fat, and all the skates who pass the hat, and advocates for every cause will greet us with their outstretched paws, and spring a horse laugh when we say we cannot spare a groat today. "We know you rich and richer wax, we've hunted up your income tax; the list is tacked to yonder tree where any passerby may see; we know you paid two thousand bones," they say to us in bitter tones; "that represents an income great, so patronize our graft, old skate." Oh, statesmen, by this foolish law, you'll make the nerves of voters raw; tax-paying at its measly best brings sorrow to the payer's breast, and you would give an extra pang to all the tired tax-paying gang.

DAVIS TALKS TO BRENNAN

CONFERS WITH ILLINOIS LEADERS IN CHICAGO.

Avoids Definite Predictions But Declares There Are Three Weeks Yet Before Voting Begins.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—John W. Davis held a series of conferences with George Brennan and the Illinois leaders today as he prepared to wind up his assault upon this state and move southward into new territory.

Brennan is optimistic about the outcome here. He avoids definite predictions but insists that "there are three weeks yet before the voting begins."

Davis has three speeches scheduled during the day at small meetings. A strenuous effort is being made to put over the local county and state democratic tickets.

Tonight he will depart for St. Louis and his present plans call for speeches in succession at Ashville, Louisville, Evansville and Cleveland. He may stop in Cincinnati if arrangements are made.

In a speech to a rally in the auditorium here last night, Davis reiterated his declaration against the ku klux klan in answer to a heckler and chided President Coolidge for failing to answer the same question.

RESCUED FROM POOR FARM.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 17.—Baron Herman von Goldschmidt, whose presence more than a year ago on the local county poor farm caused immediate assistance from noblemen relatives in Germany, died within a few miles of his wealthy relatives. Baron Goldschmidt's career in Colorado Springs just after the war was a dazzling round of unstinted entertainment, spotlights and night life. Unable to realize that the ravages of his home country had cut his income to a mere fraction of its previous size, the baron continued the revelry until creditors stepped in and salvaged what remained of his squandered fortune. Broken in health and in purse thru his twelve months of strenuous living, the German nobleman silently submitted to being taken to the poor farm.

HYPNOTISM IN MURDER?

PARIS—(By mail)—In trying to solve an unusual murder here the police believe they have come upon a clear case of crime by hypnotism. An Italian shoemaker named Scetti shot a compatriot named Maffarri, a total stranger. When arrested Scetti, a meek man, spoke incoherently and seemed to be possessed to a double personality. Investigation revealed that a third Italian, named Mattoli, had a grudge against Maffairi and had sworn vengence because the latter had eloped with his girl. Mattioli was known to have great influence over Scetti, who obeyed the most absurd orders of this man. Mattioli was arrested on a charge of complicity, and Scetti was placed under observation of a psychical expert.

SEPTEMBER A COOL MONTH

General Summary of Weather and Crop Conditions in Nebraska.

September weather in Nebraska was cool with precipitation, sunshine, cloudiness and wind movement close to normal values in the average, says T. A. Blair, weather bureau meterologist.

All parts of the state were considerably cooler than normal, but the greatest departures were in eastern and central portions. From the 20th to the 26th was the only considerable period of above normal temperatures during the month. This was followed by a cold period with the lowest temperatures of the month on the 29th. At this time freezing temperatures and killing frosts occurred in all parts of the state, but not at every station in southern and eastern counties.

The rainfall was deficient in the central and southeastern divisions, especially the southeastern, being less than one inch in portions of Saline, Jefferson, Lancaster, Gage, and Nemaha counties. Precipitation was above normal in northern and western counties. The greatest excess was in the western division, which had been markedly deficient for the five preceding months. From two to four inches fell in extreme western counties south of the North Platte. General and fairly heavy rain fell in the eastern half of the state on the first, and thruout the state from the 11th to the 15th. There were well-distributed but lighter showers on the 6th and from the 16th to the 20th. A hail storm in northeastern Boone county on the 15th, damaged corn over a path about six miles in width.

The continued cool weather was unfavorable for the ripening of corn. The deficient rainfall in southeastern and central counties delayed plowing and the seeding of winter wheat, but these made good progress further west and some wheat was up and looking well at the end of the month. Potatoes and sugar beets were being harvested at the close of the month. Beets were yielding well and potatoes were excellent in eastern sections, but were injured by drought in the west.

WHITE ROUTS HECKLERS

Kansas Editor and Candidate for Governor Discusses Coolidge and Capper.

ST. JOHN, Kas., Oct. 17 – William Allen White, who is stirring Kansas with his attacks on the ku klux klan while stumping the state in his second hand automobile as independent candidate for governor, routed his first hecklers in an address here Thursday.

The fiery Emporia editor warned his hearers that he intended to step on some one's toes and followed his remark by the assertion that the klan was a "cowardly, traitorous outfit."

The names of President Coolidge and U. S. Senator Arthur Capper came in for discussion.

"When did the president ever say anything against the klan?" White asked.

"He authorized the statement he was not a member of the klan and was not in sympathy with its aims or principles," White replied.

"Why don't you say something about Capper—he got the klan endorsement?" another heckler fired at the speaker.

"Since I'm not twins, I must take on only one at a time," White shot back, adding that his fight was against Ben Paulen, republican gubernatorial candidate.

"You kluxers didn't have anything more to do with the nomination of Capper than you did with the nomination of Coolidge," was White's parting shot. "You're just hanging on the coat tails of a mighty fast goer."

RADIO IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW — (By mail) — The great house of unions here is to be equipped with a radio broadcasting outfit and receiving sets will be installed in local trade union headquarters and workmen's clubs. A campaign has been opened for the enrollment of more laborers in the society of radio fans. Meanwhile, a host of hotels and restaurants in Moscow and Leningrad have applied for permits to build receiving sets.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I do thoroly sympathize with you, Dreamer, for it seems to me as if there are so many girls who would rather fit the description of any but that of the so-called dream-girl description. Still those girls who are not flashy and a little fast are left quite alone and manless. They are probably too bashful to attempt to inveigle a man, therefore they are left to themselves. For, what man cares for a girl who desires to stay home and cook a meal for her family, or would rather spend an evening with her music or art, than to be out 'stepping with some fellow?

I want to tell you about a girl who fits your idea very closely, Dreamer. To begin with I'll have to say she is very beautiful, with her blue eyes and, oh, the reddest cheeks, which are real and not applied, and yet she is not vain, for not once does she lord it over the rest of us when we have told her how pretty she looks etc. It is fun to watch her blush. How I envy her that blush, tho I have often wondered what she will do when she gets her first kiss. No, Dreamer she has never been kissed. (You know the kind I mean). Neither does she smoke or swear and how she can cook. Many a time we girls have lost patience with her because she has refused to go to a tea, show or shopping because she has wanted to stay home and cook and bake. Her meals are so good and tempting that no one could even refuse to eat. How her eyes sparkle when father says "I'll just have to have another helping of those potatoes." From mother, "This salad is absolutely faultless." Believe me, no food goes to waste in that family and such a clean kitchen. She keeps it spotless. You could eat dinner on the floor.

Yes, and she worries over her family too. Altho she has three sisters, she takes it upon herself to do almost everything as far as I can see. And she seems to enjoy doing such things that would make me tired and fretful or irritable if I do to do it. After doing everything she is as fresh as a rose.

She is a good mixer but is awfully shy and too modest, I think. We girls cannot break her of the bashfulness, and it is rather discouraging, sometimes. She is a musician or maybe that's the trouble. Do the boys ever ask her for a date? Never: and still she does not mind it. She has her idea of a hero, but I fear she will never find one because so far none of them seem to enjoy what she does. She always goes with girls to a show, or a dance. She has had the heroes, crushes on some of the fellows but not once will she let them know it. So, naturally, she never becomes acquainted with any of them. But, Mary Gordon, why is it she never has a beau? The boys speak very well of her and say such nice things about her and when she meets any of them she treats them perfectly wonderful. Yet she never has had a date.

She would make a wonderful wife and pal for some man, but here she is out of school and has never had a beau. Her folks are afraid she will never marry and I think that sometimes way down in her heart my friend thinks the same thing, altho I know she wants a home of her own. She is cheerful and broadminded. I wonder if there is any hope for her, Mary. And, Dreamer, are you probably the man she would call her hero? If so, how large the world is, and yet so small! Would, by chance, you two ever meet?

Mary, some people might thank me to attend to my own business, wouldn't they, and somehow I feel as if I was trying to act like—A Cupid.

A. Surely there is hope for her. As she grows older, she will lose some of the reserve, no doubt, which fails to attract men.

Perplexed Chums: Why not continue to be friends with the girls?

My Neighbor Says.

Do not throw your coffee grounds into the garbage can. They should be emptied into the sink, as they will help materially in keeping the drain pipe clean.

The housewife should have a businesslike desk for the records, papers, account books, as well as a place to sit and write when she does her day's planning and ordering.

THE LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL.

At a mass meeting of the senior class, plans were completed for the senior color day, Friday October 24. Eight songs had been handed in to be tried out for a class song. They were voted on last week and the four highest were voted on Friday. The winner will be kept secret until the color day assembly.

A class quartet composed of Earl McMunn, Emerson Smith, Blanche Hagerman and Gail McCandless sang the songs thru three or four times in order that everyone could fully make up his mind which would be best.

William Fleming, class president, presided over the meeting and urged every student to use his very best judgment in selecting the song that would be used for years to come; at the graduation exercises and in class reunions.

The students who were selected to make toasts at the banquet met with Miss Wible and Miss Rokahr, class sponsors for the purpose of determining subjects to be talked on. Toasts are to be made by three girls, two boys and one members of the faculty.

In order to raise money to go to the Central football game at Omaha Saturday, the band held a concert in the auditorium Thursday afternoon. Five cents admission was charged. The band played several selections, including high school pep songs. Realizing that there were many who would not be able to attend, a collection was taken up in the senior mass meeting, to allow every one help to pay expenses. Mr. Shepherd announced that enough students had signed so that the Burlington would run a special to Omaha for the game. It will leave Lincoln at 10:45 and will leave Omaha at 8 p. m.

that have made this store the source of furnishing many hundreds of homes

50-Mile Delivery

Thousands of dollars are sent away every year to Catalog Houses for furniture by people of Central Nebraska. To serve Nebraska people better we are making FREE Delivery Service to your door.

This delivery service is without a cent's additional cost to you. Mail order houses do not even pay the freight much less pay the drayage to your home. Furthermore an order placed now may not reach you for three or four weeks on account of slow freight. Then the goods may arrive in a broken condition—broken furniture is worthless. Sometimes furniture ordered from a catalog does not look like the picture when placed in the home.

Better buy where you can see what you are getting and have it delivered the same day to your door.

The Exchange Plan

Your old, out of date furniture is not without value. You do not need to sell it to buy new.

Robertson's will accept your old furniture and allow you its highest trade in value on any new furniture you wish to select. Our appraiser will come to your home without any obligation whatever and give you an estimate of what we will allow you on new furniture.

We do not buy used furniture but only allow its value to apply on the purchase of new.

The Budget Plan

Simply a systematic means of saving and furnishing your home at the same time. Select the home furnishings you need. Pay a small amount down and the balance a certain amount each week or month. You get the use of the furniture and soon own it—the small payments are not even missed.

We charge no interest on the unpaid balance.

SECRET OF HAPPINESS

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the tortures of displacements with consequent pains, aches and nervousness,—the middle aged woman to the uncomfortable conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.—Advertisement.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Coughs, colds or similar ailments don't just happen, they are the effect of a weakened system. The truth is that resistance is broken and you have failed to keep your body efficient.

Scott's Emulsion

is a form of nourishment that is a great help in building up the body to that degree of efficiency that coughs and colds do not seriously trouble.

If your resistance is broken down, build it up with Scott's Emulsion.

What Has Gone Before.

Returning from the frozen Northland with their sled serving as a hearse, Henry and Bill dog mushers find themselves trailed by wolves. With only three cartridges left they dare not shoot into the circle of their tormentors. The wolves are on the trail of meat and with each succeeding night a dog disappears from the sled team—lured away, the men learn, by a she-wolf that looks like a former sled dog. Then an accident to their sled permits another dog to desert. Bill, desperate, grabs the gun and starts to the rescue of the dog, which too late realizes it is being led on only to be killed and eaten. The wolves close in; three shots—and then silence. Henry knows his partner has met the same fate as the dog. He hoists the coffin into a tree and strikes out with the two remaining dogs. But the wolves are upon him at night, waiting.

INSTALLMENT NO. III.

The Rescue.

As he piled wood on the fire he discovered an appreciation of his own body which he had never felt before. He watched his moving muscles and was interested in the cunning mechanism of his fingers. By the light of the fire he crooked his fingers slowly and repeatedly, now one at a time, now all together, spreading them wide or making quick gripping movements. He studied the nail-formation, and prodded the finger-tips, now sharply, and again softly, gauging the while the nerve-sensations produced. It fascinated him, and he grew suddenly fond of this subtle flesh of his that worked so beautifully and smoothly and delicately. Then he would cast a glance of fear at the wolf-circle drawn expectantly about him, and like a blow the realization would strike him that this wonderful body of his this living flesh, was no more than so much meat, a quest of ravenous animals, to be torn and slashed by their hungry fangs, to be sustenance to them as the moose and the rabbit had often been sustenance to him.

He came out of a doze that was half nightmare, to see the red-hued she-wolf before him. She was not more than half a dozen feet away, sitting in the snow and wistfully regarding him. The two dogs were whimpering and snarling at his feet, but she took no notice of them. She was looking at the man, and for some time he returned her look. There was nothing threatening about her. She looked at him merely with a great wistfulness, but he knew it to be the wistfulness of an equally great hunger. He was the food, and the sight of him excited in her the gustatory sensations. Her mouth opened, the saliva drooled forth, and she licked her chops with the pleasure of anticipation.

A spasm of fear went thru him. He reached hastily for a brand to throw at her. But even as he reached, and before his fingers had closed on the missile, she sprang back into safety; and he knew that she was used to having things thrown at her. She had snarled as she sprang away, baring her white fangs to their roots, all her wistfulness vanishing, being replaced by a carnivorous malignity that made him shudder. He glanced at the hand that held the brand, noticing the cunning delicacy of the fingers that gripped it, how they adjusted themselves to all the inequalities of the surface, curling over and under and about the rough wood, and one little finger, too close to the burning portion of the brand, sensitively and automatically writhing back from the hurtful heat to a cooler gripping-place; and in the same instant he seemed to see a vision of those same sensitive and delicate fingers being crushed and torn by the white teeth of the she-wolf. Never had he been so fond of this body of his as now when his tenure of it was so precarious.

All night, with burning brands, he fought off th hungry pack. When he dozed despite himself, the whimpering and snarling of the dogs aroused him. Morning came, but for the first time the light of day failed to scatter the wolves. The man waited in vain for them to go. They remained in a circle about him and his fire, displaying an arrogance of possession that shook his courage born of the morning light.

He made one desperate attempt to pull out on the trail. But the moment he left the protection of the fire, the boldest wolf leaped for him, but leaped short. He saved himself by springing back, the jaws snapping together a scant six inches from his thigh. The rest of the pack was now up and surging upon him, and a throwing of firebrands right and left was necessary to drive them back to a respectful distance.

Even in the daylight he did not dare leave the fire to chop fresh wood. Twenty feet away towered a huge dead spruce. He spent half the day extending his campfire to the tree, at any moment a half dozen burning fagots ready at hand to fling at his enemies. Once at the tree, he studied the surrounding forest in order to fell the tree in the direction of the most firewood.

The night was a repetition of the night before, save that the need for sleep was becoming overpowering. The snarling of his dogs was losing its efficacy. Besides, they were snarling all the time, and his benumbed and drowsy senses no longer took note of changing pitch and intensity. He awoke with a start. The she-wolf was less than a yard from him. Mechanically, at short range, without letting go of it, he thrust a brand full into her open and snarling mouth. She sprang away, yelling with pain, and while he took delight in the smell of burning flesh and hair, he watched her shaking her head and growling wratfully a score of feet away.

But this time, before he dozed again, he tied a burning pine-knot to his right hand. His eyes were closed but a few minutes when the burn of the flame on his flesh awakened him. For several hours he adhered to this programme. Every time he was thus awakened he drove back the wolves with flying brands, replenished the fire, and rearranged the pineknot on his hand. All worked well, but there came a time when he fastened the pine knot insecurely. As his eyes closed it fell away from his hand.

He dreamed. It seemed to him that he was in Fort McGurry. It was warm and comfortable, and he was playing cribbage with the Factor. Also, it seemed to him that the fort was besieged by wolves. They were howling at the very gates, and sometimes he and the Factor paused from the game to listen and laugh at the futile efforts of the wolves to get in. And then, so strange was the dream, there was a crash. The door was burst open. He could see the wolves flooding into the big living-room of the fort. They were leaping straight for him and the Factor. With the bursting open of the door, the noise of their howling had increased tremendously. This howling now bothered him. His dream was merging into something else—he know not what; but thru it all, following him, persisted the howling.

And then he awoke to find the howling real. There was a great snarling and yelping. The wolves were rushing him. They were all about him and upon him. The teeth of one had closed upon his arm. Instinctively he leaped into the fire, and as he leaped, he felt the sharp slash of teeth that tore thru the flesh of his leg. Then began a fire fight. His stout mittens temporarily protected his hands, and he scooped live coals into the air in all directions, until the campfire took on the semblance of a volcano.

But it could not last long. His face was blistering in the heat, his eyebrows and lashes were singed off, and the heat was becoming unbearable to his feet. With a flaming brand in each hand, he sprang to the edge of the fire. The wolves had been driven back. On every side, wherever the live coals had fallen, the snow was sizzling and every little while a retiring wolf, with wild leap and snort and snarl, announced taht one such live coal had been stepped upon.

Flinging his brands at the nearest of his enemies, the man thrust his smouldering mittens into the snow and stamped about to cool his feet. His two dogs were missing, and he well knew that they had served as a course in the protracted meal which had begun days before with Fatty, the last course of which would likely be himself in the days to follow.

"You ain't got me yet!" he cried, savagely shaking his fist at the hungry beasts: and at the sound of his voice the whole circle was agitated, there was a general snarl, and the she-wolf slid up close to him across the snow and watched him with hanugry wistfulness.

He set to work to carry out a new idea that had come to him. He extended the fire into a large circle. Inside this circle he crouched, his sleeping outfit under him as a protection against the melting snow. When he had thus disappeared within his shelter of flame, the whole pack came curiously to the rim of the fire to see what had become of him. Hitherto they had been denied access to the fire, and they now settled down in a close-drawn circle, like so many dogs, blinking and yawning and stretching their lean bodies in the unaccustomed warmth. Then the she-wolf sat down, pointed her nose at a star, and began to howl. One by one the wolves joined her, till the whole pack, on haunches, with noses pointed skyward, was howling its hungry cry.

Dawn came, and daylight. The fire was burning low. The fuel had run out, and there was need to get more. The man attempted to step out of his circle of flame, but the wolves surged to meet him. Burning brands made them spring aside, but they no longer sprang back. In vain he strove to drive them back. As he gave up and stumbled inside his circle, a wolf leaped for him, missed and landed with all four feet in the coals. It cried out with terror, at the same time snarling, and scrambled back to cool its paws in the snow.

The man sat down on his blankets in a crouching position. His body leaned forward from the hips. His shoulders, relaxed and drooping, and his head on his knees advertised that he had given up the struggle. Now and again he raised his head to note the dying down of the fire. The circle of flame and coals was breaking into segments with openings in between. These openings grew in size, the segments diminished.

"I guess you can come an' get me any time," he mumbled. "Anyway, I'm goin' to sleep."

Once he awakened, and in an opening in the circle, directly in front of him, he saw the she wolf gazing at him.

Again he awakened, a little later, tho it seemed hours to him. A mysterious change had taken place—so mysterious a change that he was shocked wider awake. Something had happened. He could not understand at first. Then he discovered it. The wolves were gone. Remainded only the trampled snow to show how closely they had pressed him. Sleep was welling up and gripping him again, his head was sinking down uopn his knees, when he roused with a sudden start.

There were cries of men, the churn of sleds, the creaking of harnesses, and the eager whimpering of straining dogs. Four sleds pulled in from the river bed to the camp among the trees. Half a dozen men were about the man who crouched in the centre of the dying fire. They were shaking and prodding him into consciousness. He looked at them like a drunken man and maundered in strange, sleepy speech:

"Red she-wolf....Come in with the dogs at feedin' time....First she ate the dog-food....Then she ate the dogs....An' after that she ate Bill...."

"Where's Lord Alfred?" one of the men bellowed in his ear, shaking him roughly.

He shook his head slowly. "No, she didn't eat him....He's roostin' in a tree at the last camp."

"Dead?" the mans houted.

"An' in a box," Henry answered. He jerked his shoulder petulantly away from the griup of his questioner. "Say, you lemme alone.. ..I'm jes' plumb tuckered out.... Goo' night, everybody."

His eyes fluttered and went shut. His chin fell forward on his chest. And even as they eased him down upon the blankets his snores were rising on the frosty air.

But there was another sound. Far and faint it was, in the remote distance, the cry of the hungry wolf-pack as it took the trail of other meat than the man it had just missed.

PUT OVER FORGERY.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The Prussian academy of sciences has been the dupe of a clever forger. Six years ago, in 1918, a "Plautus parchment" was offered for sale to the State library in Berlin and purchased after the academy had given its approval of the deal. Professor H Degring, the director of the manuscript department of the library, discovered that the precious document contained fifty-one sofar unknown verses of a lost Roman comedy by Plautus. He emphasized his discovery in one of the academy's publications in which he declared that the Berlin parchment was a copy made in the fourth century A. D. A French scientist, Chatelain, questioned the authenticity of the document, but it took six years till the academy tested the ink of the mysterious document only to discover that it was made of aniline which was not invented until the middle of the nineteenth century.

DOG OWNERS GROWL.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Dog owners in Berlin are getting almost hydrophobia in their rage against governmental red tape, which insists that the half million or more dogs here shall be muzzled and led on a rope or strap. Representatives of 46,000 dog owners under the auspices of the "Schutzverein der Hunde-und Tierfreunde"—protective league of dog and animal friends vented their wrath against the government in a public protest meeting here.

ALL-NIGHT FLYING LINE.

BERLIN—(By mail — Germany pushing aviation development insofar as that is permitted by the Versailles treaty, has now opened a night line running from Berlin over Stettin to Copenhagen. The first trips prove that this night route is feasible. The Dornier all-metal plane is being used. Incidentlly American officers who have been in Germany intend to recommend to the United States government the purchase of such planes as being the safest machines now in existence.

AUTO OFFENDERS ARE ON DECREASE

Establish a Low Record for the Summer With Only Nineteen Persons in Friday's Session of Cop Court.

Offenders of traffic laws established a low record for the summer when only nineteen persons appeared in Friday's session of police court. The previous low record was thirty-two last Friday of whom twelve were parkers. That number was increased by one this week. Judge Chappell is inclined to think that the two hour parking ordinance bids fair to become a success as hithertofore on Friday sessions of court, seldom if ever less than two dozen parkers appeared.

Cecil Server, a salesman, bore the distinction of being the most flagrant of traffic law violaters arraigned. He was fined $200 and costs on charges of driving a car while drunk and illegal possession of hooch. He was arrested Thursday afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Gross and two bottles partly full of hooch, seized.

Parkers fined $1 each were: E. F. Schulze, Flavia Waters, R. R. Hahn, Howard Scott, L. M. McCasque, L. E. Kimball, E. V. Jennings, G. J. Rhodes and Dr. Cameron. U. G. Beltz and H. A. Giguire were dismissed. Fred Eissler did not appear and trial for George M. Robertson was continued.

No tail light offenders were: C. F. Bailey, fined $1; Griffin, continued; Jake Nagels, continued; Stuart Hansen, $1 and costs and Dan Wilson, $1 and costs.

NO HEART BALM SAYS JURY

Ollie Himes Who Asked $50,000 Got Nothing.

Ollie Himes, DeWitt widow who sued Carl Hallberg for $50,000 for alleged breach of a marriage promise, received nothing. The jury in Judge Stewart's court before whom the case was tried, returned from their deliberations shortly afternoon Friday and brought in a verdict for the defendant.

Nearly a hundred letters, a kewpie doll, a box of perfume and some silk hose, were exhibited at the trial, in an effort to prove that Hallberg had made the promise which he denied. The doll, perfume and hosiery were said to be gifts from him. Mr. Hallberg's letters when read in court indicated an impersonal friendship. Mrs. Hime's letter were in part obscene

DOCTORS HOLD A MEETING

Professional Men of Johnson County Gather at Tecumseh.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Oct. 17.—About fifty professional men, doctors of medicine and dentists, from several counties attended a meeting of the Johnson county Medical society here Thursday evening. A dinner was served the visitors at 6 p. m., and a program followed. Dr. J. J. Hompes, Dr. I. A. McKinnon, Dr. James E. M. Thomson, all of Lincoln; Dr. J. C. Waddell, and Dr. W. A. Rush of Beatrice, and others spoke before the gathering.

MAY REGISTER DURING EVENING

Poll Books Will Be Kept Open From 7 to 9 p. m. Every Night Next Week to Handle Last Rush.

Registration books at the office of the city clerk, second floor of the city hall building, will be kept open every night next week between 7 and 9 p. m., in order to handle the usual "eleventh hour" rush of voters who have not registered since before the poll books were opened last May.

The total registration up to the close of business Thursday was 17,312. The total voting strength of this city, if all eligible men and women register, should be 25,000. At present there are registered 10,746 republicans, 5,738 democrats, 242 progressives, 10 socialists, 142 independents, 38 prohibitionists and 396 claiming no party affiliatoin.

Registration books will be kept open at the city clerk's office until 4:30 p. m. Saturday.

COOLIDGE ONLY SAFE BET

Reavis Offers Him to Democrats as Only Alternative to LaFollette in This State.

"I am for Coolidge because he is more concerned with being right than with getting votes," Former Congressman Reavis said Friday noon to members of the Kiwanis club and many others who came in to hear the address, the second in a series of partisan political talks the club is sponsoring.

"I am for Coolidge because he is honest and sincere, because he is the only man to beat LaFollette, and finally because he is going to be elected. Frankly, there is little difference between Coolidge and Davis, in their conception of the theory of this government, and if it were necessary to beat the radicals, I would vote for Davis and never apologize. But in Nebraska the race is between Coolidge and LaFollette—there is no other choice—and we all know that there are thousands of democrats who wouldn't vote for Davis unless God Almighty gave them a certificate that Davis would serve out his term!"

Mr. Reavis roundly scored the radicals and defended the political party system, saying that if individual initiative and responsibility were substituted for the latter method of finding out the issues and the stands of each candidate, the government would be wrecked. He spoke against the proposed amendment to the Nebraska constitution, as an opening wedge.

Preceding the serious part of the meeting, Dean Buck recited Andy Gump's platform, promising everybody everything.

WEDS HER PERFECT LOVER

Mrs. Hall-Quest and Frederick W. Hart Are Married by Judge in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Shirley Knox Hall-Quest and her "perfect passionate love," Frederick W. Hart, principals in a double divorce, now are united in matrimony. They were married here last night and left for the home of the bride's parents in Minneapolis.

Dr. Albert Lawrence Hall-Quest, university professor, divorced his wife here two weeks ago to clear the way for her marriage with Hart. Mrs. Rosamond Hart divorced her husband in Cincinnati, charging abandonment.

Hart and Mrs. Hall-Quest met here last night for the first time since the professor secured his divorce. Mrs. Hall-Quest slipped out of the city from the apartment she occupied with Hart when the affair became public property.

The wedding ceremony was performed in the Somerset hotel by Judge Dennis E. Sullivan. Witnesses were a girl from Hart's office here, a business associate, and a newspaper reporter.

The bride broke down and cried at the conclusion of the ceremony, and Hart put his arms about her. The pair plan to spend their honeymoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Knox, who are understood to have forgiven their daughter and Hart.

J. N. Norton at Beatrice.

BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 17.—In the home town of his republican opponent, J. N. Norton, democratic candidate for governor, addressed a large political gathering. He first addressed an open meeting on the streets. He was then taken to a hall. Members of the women's clubs of the city were present.

WRECKAGE CLEARED AWAY

Debris of Derailment and Oil Fire Will Be Removed by Saturday Noon.

Superintendent Mullen and Master Mechanic Dietrich of the Burlington returned Friday morning from Abbott, Neb., where they had been since Wednseday supervising the clearing away of the debris of the derailment and oil fire at that station Wednesday morning. They reported the work well under way with the indications that all would be cleared away by Saturday noon.

WOMEN EMPHASIZE PEACE IN WORLD

Nebraska Federation of Woman's Clubs Closes Annual Convention at Grand Island.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 1.—Emphasizing world peace in its final program held at the Liederkranz auditorium the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs closed its annual convention here Thursday night.

Registration of delegates reached the 400 mark and it is estimated that the total number of visitors from over the state was upwards of 1,000.

In addition to the change in state dues made Thursday morning the convention decided that any club admitted to membership in the state federation is automatically a member of the district federation and entitled to representation at the district conventions.

No decision was reached regarding a permanent headquarters for the paid secretary of the state federation, but the invitation of the Hastings club to use a room of its new club home is being considered.

SON TROUBLED WITH PIMPLES

On Face For About a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"My son was troubled with pimples on his face for about a year. They were red and festered and scaled over. The pimples itched causing him to pick them, which made them worse, and his face looked badly. He read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped him so he purchased more, and in about six weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Rose Waterman, Teton, Wyoming.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap and occasional touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soften, soothe and heal. They are ideal for the toilet, as is also Cuticura Talcum.

Colgate Maroons on Hand For Game With Huskers

BREAK LONG TRIP WITH A WORKOUT

Stop Made at Chicago Thursday Where Dick Harlow's Eleven Limbers Up—Huskers Defend Against Pass.

Coach Dick Harlow and his Colgate Maroons rolled into Lincoln Friday morning ready to go against the Cornhuskers Saturday in the first football game in which the two universities have engaged. Because the train bearing the easterners was late most of the students who were on hand to greet them had to return to classes.

The Maroons broke the long journey at Chicago Thursday where a workout was held. They will limber up again Friday afternoon at stadium field. Saturday's game, like all others on the Cornhusker home program, gets under way at 2 p. m.

Prepare Defense in Pass.

In spite of the reports emanating from the home of the Maroon which state that the two most reliable forward passers on the eastern eleven would be unable to get into the fray here, the Cornhuskers devoted the last real practice session remaining to them in preparing a defense for the aerial game.

The forward pass has been the instrument thru which two opponents have already tamed the Huskers and the coaching staff is making an effort to avoid a third trouble by the same route.

There are many followers of football who lay too much stress upon the overhead game and coals have been added to their fire by the success of Illinois and Oklahoma in the use of it. Those who have spent most of their years as coaches know its value but they likewise know that a team which has nothing but the forward pass wins very few games.

Thursday's practice for the Huskers saw no heavy tackling the evening being given over almost entirely to blocking passes. The freshmen were throwing them.

Saturday's game has become the ultimate screech in conservatism. Both camps have issued statements in which it is clearly indicated that a defeat would not come as a surprise. Both are dealing with the lightest elevens in years. Likewise there is plenty of green material on both teams, despite reports from the east that Nebraska's team is missing only three or four regulars from last year's lineup.

Start With Four Regulars.

As a matter of fact the Cornhuskers started the season with four regulars, one of whom was playing out of position, and an injury removed one of the four when Harold Hutchison, center, was forced out of the Illinois game with a broken collar bone.

From any angle the game appears a toss-up with the Colgate team carrying a slight edge principally because of the presence of Eddie Tryon, the lad who was in a large way responsible for Colgate's triumph over the big Orange team from Syracuse last season.

Coach Harlow was making no pre-game predictions. He said his first string was in good shape altho his reserve strength has been weakened by injuries.

Coach Harlow, pointing to several players, remarked, "My team looks more like a high school eleven than a college team."

They are not all pygmies, however, altho there are a few built along the Lilliputian type.

Uncertain About Two Positions.

There are two uncertainties in his lineup. He is not sure whether he will start Kern or Gray at left guard and a doubt exists between LaBell and Mahler at right halfback.

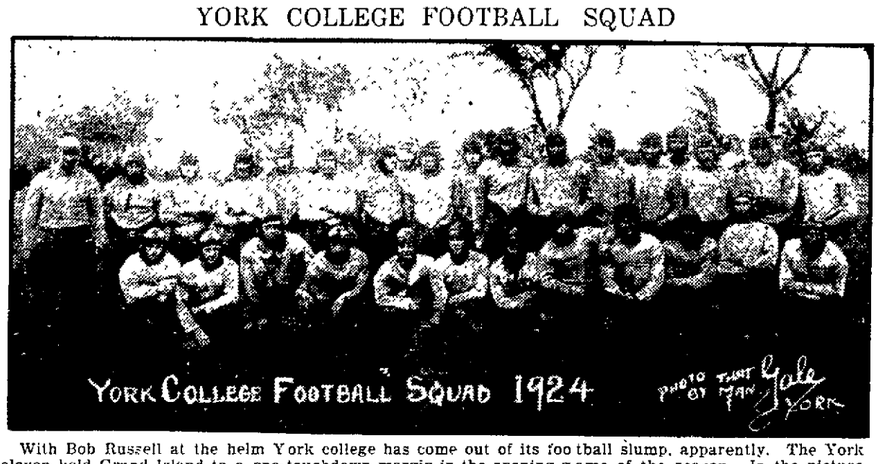

Coach Harlow recalled the 1920 invasion of the east by Nebraska. He was at Penn State at that time. Nebraska took a trimming from Penn after defeating Rutgers, handily.

The Colgate team worked out at Stagg field Thursday in Chicago and the Colgate mentor said the Chicago eleven appears even larger than that 1920 team of Cornhuskers who startled the east by their size.

One of the Colgate players, Seybolt, had been looking foward to the Nebraska trip since it was scheduled. In last week's game he dislocated a shoulder and it appeared that he would be unable to come here. His fraternity brothers made up a purse, however, and sent him along.

Michigan-Illinois GaMe Brings Interest to Fever Heat

YORK COLLEGE FOOTBALL SQUAD

KNUTE ROCKNE PAYS TRIBUTE TO VALLEY

In his weekly article in which he is reviewing football in all sections, Knute Rockne paid tribute to the Missouri Valley conference this week. He said:

"Nebraska's defeat by Oklahoma was the big surprise in the Missouri Valley, and it went to prove that the calibre of football in the valley is comparable with the the best. The game was played in Oklahoma, however, and the Cornhuskers are never as tough away from home as on their own lot.

"The conference race still is open to anybody and is decidedly interesting."

John McGraw Is Entitled To Claim Laurels That Go To Master Manager

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

After breaking a precedent of forty-nine years' duration by winning four major league pennants in a row and after winning this year what was his tenth National league championship, John J. McGraw is entitled to be recognized as the master-manager of all times.

McGraw has won just double the number of pennants that any rival National league manager has achieved, and he is four ahead of Connie Mack, the old wizard, who won six championships with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Giant leader had to be the world's smartest manager and best leader to win the National league pennant this year. He had to win with a team that was not the best in the league and that was cracked by the loss of two stars in the last hard week of the race.

Braves Spoil First Chance.

Just ten years ago McGraw had a fourth pennant right at his finger tips when the Boston Braves popped up from nowhere and ran away with the pennant. This year he escaped narrowly from the same deal when the Brooklyn Robins jumped out in mid-season and ran the champions clear up to the wire.

His genius at keeping players on their toes in the tighest places was shown in the last week of the pennant race when Frank Frisch and Heinie Groh, two mainstays of the offense and the defense, were injured and had to be replaced.

McGraw put Freddy Lindstrom, and eighteen-year-old rookie, on third base, and astounded the fans by placing George Kelly, the regular first baseman, in centerfield and then switching him to second base with Bill Terry, a twenty-one-year-old rookie, on first.

It wasn't the most finished or the most graceful combination, but it was good enough to win the important games in the Pittsburgh series that had much to do with the winning of the pennant.

McGraw always had insisted that a team is never stronger than its reserves, and how well he had figured and planned for such an emergency was not shown until he was called upon to fall back on the reserves.

The credit that the Giants should get can be realized only when a mental picture is drawn of the Washington Senators without Harris and Bluege, the Pittsburgh Pirates without Maranville and Traynor, the Yankees without Joe Dugan and Erin Ward.

The Yankees had to worry along without Ward for a month, and Miller Huggins, the manager of the former champions, admitted that it was the loss of Ward that brought havoc to the team.

McGraw always has been forced to be a brilliant manager. He never has had an extraordinary team. When great teams of the past are being discussed you never hear any critics talking about a Giant team with the reverence and respect in the comments about the great Athletics, the great Boston Red Sox and other brilliant teams.

The Giant leader always has had good teams, teams that were well balanced and, above all, teams that were game to the heart and hustlers from head to toe. No player can last with McGraw unless he gives everything he has when it is needed No other team in the National league could have gone thru what the Giants endured all season.

Always Taking Chances.

When the team cracked on its last western trip, McGraw was game enough to try experiments that caused other managers to throw up their hands in wonder. The centerfield position was bothering McGraw and he didn't like Irish Meusel's work in left field So he benched Meusel and put George Kelly in center

The winning of four straight pennants was McGraw's ambition of life There is little more now that he can accomplish, unless he wants to win five pennants or six pennants in succession Whatever his plans are, he is not going to retire for awhile Despite the strain and the worry of years in keeping a winning ball club a winner, McGraw has retained all his love for the game and he never would be satisfied unless he retained the same intimate and close association with the players

Perhaps McGraw gets a kick out of producing new combinations He has won ten pennants and in that drive over ten hard seasons he has directed clubs that have been changed from top to bottom several times The Giants were good enough to win the pennant this year, but they are not such a good club that McGraw can sit around all winter and feel assured of success next year.

The team is getting worn in places, and McGraw feels that a change in scenery is necessary sometimes to keep players going. It has been reported that he has cooled on several of his players and that he will do a lot of trading, buying and selling during the off-season.

It is physically impossible for Heine Groh to keep going forever, but McGraw need not worry about him. Young Lindstrom is going to be ready in another season, if he is not there now, and he seems certain of becoming one of the great stars.

DuBois Track Team in Trials

DU BOIS, Neb., Oct. 16.—With twelve of the sixteen boys in the school out for cross country, the prospects for a winning track team at DuBois high are exceedingly bright. In the trials held this week, five men turned in 11:15 time for the event. The first dual meet of the season is scheduled for October 20 with Bein, Kansas

ALONG THE SIDELINES.

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin's drill for the important Minnesota game here tomorrow ended yesterday with two and a half hours of line scrimmage and open field tackling Coach Jack Ryan has shifted Captain Harris back to first string half

Milwaukee, Wis. — Thirty-five Gopher players and the coaches and trainers, arrived here from Minneapolis today and will leave for Madison and the Wisconsin game tomorrow morning Another snappy scrimmage and signal drill culminated the Minnesota practice yesterday

South Bend, Ind.—Hundreds of students cheered Coach Knute Rockne's Irish warriors yesterday when the Notre Dame varsity entrained for Rye, N. Y., where the team will practice today for the Army game on the New York Polo grounds tomorrow

Columbus, Ohio—With bright spotlights illuminating the field, Coach Wilce initiated the ghost ball for the first time this season as the Buckeye drilled past dark last night

OFFER RICH DISH TO FOOTBALL FANS

Saturday's Schedule Finds Some Great Games on Tap—Game Here One of Three Big Events on Slate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(U. P.)—Before the lamplighters swing into action tomorrow night, the largest number of important eastern football arguments ever billed for debate this early in the season will have been settled.

No less than seven major engagements face the seaboard gridiron battlers and there seems little doubt as to the smashing of all early season attendance records.

The Polo grounds will be filled for the Army-Notre Dame encounter; a crammed bowl is anticipated for the Yale-Dartmouth game; Harvard expects a mob of 51,000 for its contest with Holy Cross, and capacity crowds are assured at the Columbia-Pennsylvania, Princeton-Navy, Syracuse-Boston college and Penn State-Georgia Tech melees.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

Most everything that might be ordered by a famished football fan is on the menu arranged for tomorrow, the biggest day of the youthful season.

Three of the most important intersectional games of the season are features of the program that is choked from the top to the bottom line with interesting games.

Because of its tradition and the habit the westerners have of springing something sensational in the way of new football, the game between Notre Dame and the Army in New York will be the biggest game of the day.

The first visit of Notre Dame to the east, always an early-season event, is sort of a fashion show for all football and the game is followed even more closely by the men who follow coaching as a profession than by the neutral fans who get a thrill out of fast, hard football.

May Spring Some Sophs.

Notre Dame will spring that great backfield which thrilled the east last year—Stuhldreher, Layden, Crowley and Miller—and if Knute Rockne follows precedent, he probably will put on display a couple of sensational sophomores as a promise—"Here's what you'll have to beat next year."

The Army, as a rule, runs more to power than brilliance, but this year the Cadets will have Harry Wilson, the All-American back from last year's Penn State eleven, and Wilson is one of the best and most spectacular runners in the game.

Last year the Army-Notre Dame game conflicted with one of the games of the world's series, and it made itself felt appreciably on the gate at the baseball game.

Penn State is down south to play a return game with Georgia Tech and a good hard game is assured. The two teams have enjoyed the friendliest of relations and their games in the past two years have been features of the season. Penn State may not be as strong as last year, as several of the players upon whom Hugo Bezdek depended as a nucleus for his team, got into scholastic troubles and were disqualified for the season.

While it isn't the most important game of the season, the battle at Lincoln between Colgate and the powerful Nebraska team will be one of the hardest played and most interesting games of the day. No teams in the country play harder football than Colgate and Nebraska.

Some Big Games In East.

Among the eastern games that will draw big crowds are the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven; the Harvard-Holy Cross game at Cambridge; the Princeton-Navy game at Princeton, and the Syracuse-Boston college game at Syracuse.

Dartmouth is assuming a big proposition in meeting Yale tomorrow and Harvard next week. Victories over two of the "Big Three" teams mean more to Dartmouth than any other games on the schedule.

Harvard and Holy Cross always have a battle royal and the Princeton Tigers will have the job that any team in the country has against Johns Hopkins at Pittsburgh; Washington and Jefferson against Carnegie at Washington; Cornell against Rutgers at Ithaca.

Two very important games are carded in the Western Conference. Illinois meets Michigan at Urbana, and Minnesota plays Wisconsin at Madison.

Taking a breather after their hard game last week, Ohio State meets Ohio Wesleyan, and Iowa plays Lawrence at Iowa City

Chicago plays Indiana at Chicago

In the Missouri Valley Conference the big games are between Kansas and the Kansas Aggies, and Missouri and Iowa State, with the intersectional feature at Lincoln between Nebraska and Colgate

Penn State In South.

The Georgia Tech-Penn State game ranks the other big southern games in general interest, but local importance will be attached to the games between Vanderbilt and Tulane at New Orleans, Alabama and Swanee at Birmingham, and Centre and Transylvania at Danville.

On the Pacific Coast, California plays the Olympia Club of San Francisco and Stanford plays Oregon. Southern California is idle

GOLF LESSONS

In putting, should the player stand erect and grip the club at the top or should he lean over and "choke" it? Why?

Answered by LEO DIEGEL.

Use the position which seems most comfortable and which gives the greatest steadiness to the body. Steadiness is the main point to strive for in putting. Leaning over and gripping the putter short is not a good way to putt, ordinarily as it puts too much weight on the toes and balls of the feet. This tends to cause a swaying of the body. Usually it is better to stand more erect, with the weight of the body more on the heels. In most cases this will give the desired steadiness and balance. The importance of absolute steadiness in putting is a point that cannot be overemphasized. The player who leans over in a cramped attitude when putting is placing too great a strain on his nerves and muscles, thus destroying the necessary feeling of comfort and relaxation.

Emil Yde Must Do Some Explaining

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(U P.)—Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, has summoned Pitcher Emil Yde, of the Pittsburgh club to explain a story in which Yde is credited with having stated that more than one player was approached in the scandal involving Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan of the New York Giants. The story, printed in a Rockford, Ill., paper and based on an interview given by an unnamed fan, states that Yde said other players on the Phillies' team, aside from Heinie Sand, shortstop, had been approached.

"I want to find out all there is to know about the whole matter," Landis said.

Yde lives in Freeport, Ill., about twenty miles from Rockford, and Landis expects him here today or tomorrow.

THE DOPE BUCKET.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 17.—With Missouri at Ames, playing Iowa State, Kansas at Manhattan playing the Kansas Aggies and Grinnell at Des Moines to meet Drake, Missouri Valley conference football will take its second titular step Saturday afternoon with six of its nine teams in action. One other conference member, Nebraska, will be busy outside the organization, playing Colgate, and Washington and Oklahoma, the other two members of the organization, are without scheduled games.

Two of Saturday's games—the Ames-Missouri and Kansas-Kansas Aggie clashes—are likely to have an important bearing on the conference pennant race, while the third is expected to go to Drake as one of the leaders in the battle for the pennant, in spite of the fact that Grinnell won from Washington at Grinnell last week.

The Ames-Missouri game finds the two teams undefeated, and each with strong hopes for a conference title. Ames has met and defeated Kansas in its first conference game, and strengthened its prestige by the feat. The Tigers as yet have played no conference games, but their victory over Chicago university has given them a claim to fame.

Kansas' hopes for a title are at stake in the game at Manhattan encounter. The Jayhawkers, having already been defeated by Ames, can afford no more early season defeats, if they hope to figure prominently in the flag race, and while they have always been favored by the gods in their traditional clash with the Manhattan crew, there is a possibility that Coach Bachman may this season turn the trick for which the Aggies have been striving so long

A Kansas victory will put the Jayhawkers back in the running, however, for it seems unlikely that any of the conference schools will be able to weather the conference storm this year undefeated

Aggie Gridsters and Bethany Tie

Coach Rufe Dewitz's Aggie high gridsters were held to a scoreless tie Thursday afternoon by the Bethany aggregation in a battle on the Bethany rectangle. Cox starred for the Aggies while Bever, Bethany fullback, was the main cog in the suburban offensive. The Bethany team will play University Place next Friday.

AXTELL BEATS TABLE ROCK

AXTELL, Kas., Oct. 17. Axtell, Kas. high won from Table Rock at football, 6 to 0.

ILLINI PIN HOPES ON HAROLD GRANGE

Doubt If Fleet Halfback Will Do Much Running But His Passing Ability May Turn Tide of Victory.

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 17.—Some of the wild enthusiasm which made Washington temporarily unbalanced when the Senators were fighting for the baseball championship drifted overland and dropped in on this maddened college town where a major football championship may be decided tomorrow.

All the surrounding hamlets and counties are as proud of the Illinois eleven as Washington was of her fighting nine, and the same confidence exists that Michigan will be defeated here tomorrow and the "Big Ten" championship will be won with a clean title.

Michigan, however, may be a slight favorite in betting.

Divided Spoils in 1923.

Illinois had a championship eleven last year, but she had to share the honor with Michigan as neither team lost a game and the schedules wouldn't permit them to fight it out.

The schedule this year brings together in this early game the two outstanding powers of a great conference and makes possible one of the greatest football exhibitions in years.

Seventy thousand spectators are assured. Twice the number would have been along the sidelines if room could have been made for them.

For Illinois the occasion is more than a football spectacle. It is one of the great days in the history of the university and it was the occasion of deep sentiment. Illinois is dedicating a new $2,000,000 stadium tomorrow to perpetuate the memory of the Illinois boys who carried her colors to glory on the battle fields of France. Some of her greatest athletes are among those whose memory will be honored.

Put Faith in Grange

Upon the shoulders of "Red" Grange, one of the outstanding backs of recent years, rests the hope and the money of Illinois undergraduates and old grads that Michigan will be downed.

Michigan didn't have to be told that her most important job is to stop that charging, flame-topped Grange and has been working all season on a defense against one man. Kipke is gone and Michigan has only one star—Herb Steger—to throw in on the offense against another individual.

Grange has been turned into a ball thrower since last season and now he is a "triple threat" man of the greatest possibility.

Last Saturday Michigan had to uncover a surprise that had been held as an ace for the offense against Illinois. Facing the danger of a tie score against the Michigan Aggies, Fielding Yost had to uncover Parker, an unexpected forward passer. Illinois has seen him now and Illinois will be watching him.

The Michigan squad of thirty-four players, five coaches and two trainers was due here today.

Weather Forecast Encouraging

The weather man had done his best for the contest, promising "clear and probably colder" for tomorrow afternoon.

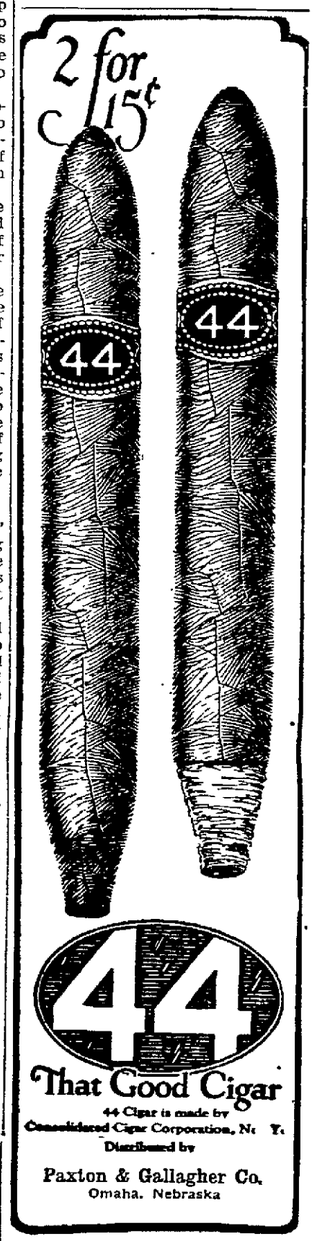

Heavy automobile traffic over the roads from Chicago is expected and special police will be detailed all along the highway. Buses will run between here and Chicago for the game.

Rooters Will Go With High Team

A special train will carry Lincoln high school rooters to Omaha Saturday morning where the first and second teams of the Red and Black battle those of Omaha Central. A tentative lineup with the weights of the Lincoln team was announced Friday morning by Coach Browne:

Blodgett left guard, 170
Bauer, center, 145,
Lesh, right guard, 170,
Tindell, right tackle, 175,
Buechner, right end, 175,
Weyand, quarterback, 145,
Captain Teal, left half, 115,
Cortick, fullback, 155,

A team of reserves from the Lincoln camp will play the Coter reserves Friday afternoon at Bethany in a game which precedes the Cotner-Hastings clash. For Lincoln, Folger and McCarthy will probably start at the ends; Still and Jones at tackle; Tobin and Koster, guards and Gohde, center. Elliott will call the signals with Kimmell and Taylor at halfback and Tindell at fullback.

Every Gordon hat has to be just so. That's why they're hard to make but easy to wear.

The price is easy to pay, too.

Gordon

Doane Trounces Central Eleven

CRETE, Neb., Oct. 16.—Doane college's football team trimmed Nebraska Central, 13 to 0 in a battle here Thursday afternoon. The Tigers scored in the first few minutes of play on straight line bucks.

The remainder of the period saw the ball in the center of the field with neither team showing an advantage. Toward the end of the second quarter the Tigers opened up a passing attack. Taylor going over for a touchdown on an end run. Doane had several chances to score in the last half, but lacked the necessary punch.

THOUSANDS VISIT DAIRY SIRE TRAIN

Seven Thousand Saw Demonstration at Broken Bow—Nearly Three-fourths of Perkins County Attends.

"The crowds attending the meetings held by the dairy train which is being run over the Burlington, are large and the interest is great." A L Haecker said Thursday. "Since October 6, when the train left Lincoln, eighteen meetings have been held, and 35,459 have not only attended the meetings but gone thru the train Many more attended than could go thru the train So far, Broken Bow has the record, with 4,200 passing thru the train and 7,000 attending the meeting. The highest record for a forenoon session is held by Bayard, in Scotts Bluff county, where 3 300 people passed thru the train.

"Perkins county has the record for attendance compared with their population. They assembled at Grant and out of the 4,000 representing the entire population of the county, 2,667 attended the meeting and went thru the exhibit shown in the dairy train.

"I have been on several similar excursions but I have never seen greater interest displayed or better co-operation between the business men of the town and the farmers. At nearly every place visited, a splendid program had been arranged and quite frequently a free lunch provided. Fat steers were roasted, barbecue method, and served up as sandwiches with buns, butter, cheese and coffee on the side. In the little town of Curtis, in Frontier county, 5,000 people were given a free lunch at noon. Broken Bow fed 7,000, and Ravenna 2,500. Holdrege and Minden fed from 3,000 to 4,000 at their lunch.

This train has been made possible by the Burlington, co-operating with the various state agricultural organizations, the press and the First National bank of Lincoln. The chamber of commerce of Lincoln and Omaha also furnished men at some of the meetings. The principal object of the train is to encourage a better class of live stock, especially for dairy purposes, and instruction is given in the care and selection of dairy stock especially in the selection and use of good dairy sires.

MERE MENTION.

Boyd Merrill, charged with wife and child abandonment, was given a continuance to December 16 when he appeared in Justice Stevens' court Thursday afternoon. He was arraigned July 5 when he pleaded innocence and was released on $1,000 recognizance. The bond was renewed Thursday.

Lieutenant Governor Fred F. Johnson was forty-eight years old Thursday, and celebrated the event by sitting for an hour or two in the governor's chair, the chief executive being at Yankton, S. D., outside the state. He was not summoned to Lincoln, as Governor Bryan's absense was brief, but being in the city on business, he walked up to the statehouse, and acted as governor for a bit so that he might the better remember the particular birthday.

Jacob C. Randell filed a divorce action against Ada M. Randall in the district court Thursday, charging that she abandoned his home and has refused to return. The couple were married in Kansas, January 29, 1886. There are ten children, eight of whom are now of age. The two minor children are now in the custody of their father and he asks that he be allowed to retain them. He claims that his wife left him in October, 1915, and has since refused to return despite his many invitations that she do so.

Lillie Della Duff and her husband Edward O. Duff appealed to the supreme court Thursday afternoon from a decision of the Douglas county district court requiring them to repay $1,691.40 to Eliza Ashcraff, the niece of Mrs. Duff. The plaintiff, who is past seventy, says that she turned over her property to her niece and her husband, exceeding $2,100 in value. on their agreement to care for her the remainder of her life. She says that they did not supply her with the foods the doctor said she must have, didn't pay her doctor bills or buy her clothing, and made her pay $10 a month room rent. The niece said that her aunt was comfortably located in the Old People's Home at Omaha but wasn't satisfied, and insisted on coming to live with her. They were at considerable expense to fix up their house, and that in a year or two she made herself disagreeable so as to force them to break the contract.

COLLEGE VIEW MAN CANNOT BE FOUND

Search Is Instituted for E. N. Burns Who Left Home of Daughter for Lincoln Wednesday.

Police and friends of E N Burns seventy, 403 East Eighth, College View, have engaged in a diligent search for him since Wednesday evening

Late Thursday afternoon no trace of the missing man had been found. According to W. J. Patty, son-in-law of Mr. Burns, he left the Patty home in College View and started for Lincoln on the 7:15 car intending to come to work on the Lincoln street department where he had been employed for some time. As far as is known this is the last that was seen of him.

No motive for his disappearance is known to the members of the family Due to his advanced age he has become lost several times before but had always returned within a few hours. At the time of his disappearance he was wearing a pair of blue overalls, a blue serge coat and a faded hat His hair is gray and he is partially bald.

BOWERS IS BOUND OVER

Preliminary Hearing Held for Man Charged With Firing Fatal Shot.

MADISON, Neb., Oct. 16. — At preliminary hearing before Judge Putney, yesterday John Bowers, charged with murder in the first degree, as he is alleged to have fired the shot that killed young Cherrington on the night of August 31 of this year, and his wife were bound over to the district court for trial without bail and were turned over to the county sheriff for retention in the county jail.

Why Stay Fat?
You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are pleasant to take, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg, Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat. You can reduce steadily and easily without going thru long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet with fear of bad effects. Get a box and start getting slender now.—Advertisement.

CAN YOU SOLVE—

The Problem of the Voluntary Confession

(One of the World's Greatest Detectives Did)

The chief of the United States Secret Service had counseled watchful waiting as the only possible method for solving the mystery connected with the projected theft of a box car by Albert Karlschmidt and his fellow conspirators but Charles Gates, one of the men attached to the Secret Service during the days before America entered the World war, couldn't see it that way.

"Karlschmidt, Respa and the rest of them," he argued, "haven't laid their plans for nothing. They're ready to make off with this box car for some reason that we don't know. But it's no time for inaction. The car they are planning to steal is on the Grand Trunk tracks. Karlschmidt is an expert on high explosives. The Grand Trunk leads into the Port Huron tunnel, one of the most important means of communication between the United States and Canada, and it's a hundred to one that they intend to roll it down the incline under the river, with a load of dynamite and a time fuse so set that the explosion will wreck the tube and completely block international traffic at this point."

Only a short time later, when the stage was all set and it was apparent from the investigations of Gates and the other men assigned to the case, that the plan was on the verge of going thru. Government operatives surrounded the Karlschmidt residence and, with drawn guns, arrested the dynamite expert, his sister, Carl Schmidt and Franz Respa. The charge was conspiracy against the neutrality of the United States and the safety of a friendly nation—an accusation which was amply proved by the facts in the case, thanks to Gates' clear reasoning and quick action.

The Karlschmidt case is probably the only one in detective annals which hinged on the attempted theft of anything as prosaic as a railroad box car, but if it had gone thru as planned, it would have resulted in the loss of several million dollars of property and scores of innocent lives.

The Problem of the Voluntary Confession.

While detectives of fiction experience their greatest difficulty in locating the man who is guilty of a crime, those of fact often meet the biggest obstacle in securing a confession after they have arrested a suspect who they feel certain is the man they want.

But Ellis Parker, detectives of Burlington County, N. J., and solver of more than a hundred murder mysteries, is a past master of this art. Consider, for example, the case of Caleb Fox, the Camp Dix jitney driver who was shot and robbed. Aftetr a thoro investigation of the crime, Parker arrested a man by the name of Ernest Mayo, to whom all the evidence pointed.

Mayo, however, stoutly protested his innocence and, as Parker said to one of his assistants, "We'll have to get a confession out of him before we dare take the case into court. We've got a good line of circumstantial evidence, but the right kind of a lawyer could fill it full of holes in no time and we would run a big risk of Mayo's getting off. No, we got to get a confession out of him."

"Why not break your rule and try the third dgeree, chief?"

"Not a chance!" was Parker's emphatic reply. "A confession obtained by force, no matter how carefully you go about it, isn't worth that——" and he snapped his fingers expressively. "If Mayo is guilty, his conscience will force him to confess. If he won't do it voluntarily he wouldn't do it truthfully if force were applied and a false confession is worse than none at all."

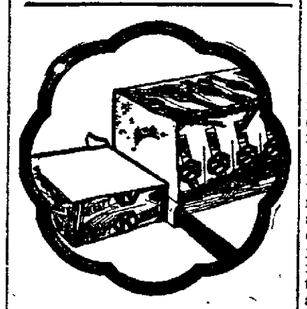

Mayo's principal defense was based upon his alibi of having been in Philadelphia at the time the crime was committed. He claimed to have left Wrightstown, near Camp Dix, day before the murder and to have been locked up by the Philadelphia police after a protracted spree some forty-eight hours later. Parker had investigated this and had found that the story of his being arrested was true. But this still left at least twenty-four hours unaccounted for, hours during which Mayo claimed to have been in Philadelphia under the influence of liquor.

How could he get the prisoner voluntarily to confess? How could he induce him to admit the falsity of his story without using force or threats of any kind?

Could you have solved this delicate problem in detective work?

Ellis Parker did and the method he used will be explained tomorrow.

DISMISS SECOND REPLEVIN SUIT

Tangle in Office of Central State Committee of Third Party Is Made Less Complicated.

Complications were reduced somewhat at the office of the central state committee of the LaFollette party when a replevin suit, for office effects at the LaFollette-Wheeler headquarters in the Funke building, filed by Frank Harrison, regional manager, in the justice court of W. A. Hawes Wednesday afternoon, was dismissed by the judge Thursday afternoon. Attorneys for Mr. Harrison agreed to the dismissal.

The Harrison forces will await the decision to be given by Justice Stevens Saturday morning on the replevin suit filed by Otto Mutz, chairman of the central state committee who was dismissed by Mr. Harrison recently because of alleged inefficiency and for using the LaFollette name as an instrument in furthering the causes of aspirants to state and congressional offices, according to the regional head.

Mr. Mutz denies the right of Mr. Harrison to dictate his actions, he says, and contends that the state committee is independent of the regional director and his influence.

Thursday morning an injunction was filed by Mr. Mutz in Justice Stevens' court seeking to compel Postmaster McClay to refrain from delivering the mail addressed to the central state committee to Mr. Harrison. The mail is now reposing at the postoffice and is delivered to neither faction because of the replevin suit in which Mr. Mutz plans to move the state headquarters two blocks east on O street and carry on the business of the campaign in spite of the regional director.

The person to whom the mail should be delivered is the one who is the rightful owner of the disputed office fixtures, is the opinion of Judge Stevens who states that when the replevin suit of Mr. Mutz is settled, the injunction on the mail delivery should consequently be decided.

MUTZ CASE CARRIED OVER

Action in Which Injunction Is Sought to Recover Mail Held Over Until Saturday.

The action in Justice Stevens' court Thursday in which Otto Mutz sought an injunction against Postmaster McClay to gain possession of mail addressed to the State chairman of the LaFollette committee, now in the hands of the postoffice, and mail that may arrive addressed in that manner was carried over until Saturday. It is probable that the case will be heard further at that time.

Y. M. C. A. Membership Campaign Nets Large Number of New Recruits.

Reports on the Y. M. C. A. membership drive given Thursday night at a dinner at headquarters showed that 112 new members have been signed up so far. Fifty-one of them were recruited Thursday. Salt creek division, under Frank A. Peterson, tied for first place in the race for new members with the Oak creek division under Mark Caster.

TEKAMAH MAN NEW HEAD OF I. O. O. F.

Elect Officers at Close of Grand Lodge Session and Select Grand Island as Next Meeting Place.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 16 — Grand Island will have the 1925 grand lodge of Nebraska, it was decided at the grand lodge of the I. O. O. F. which closed a four-days' session here this afternoon. Charles Wayne Ray of North Platte was elected grand warden and will automatically become grand master two years later.

Grand master, W. H. Vancleve, Tekamah.
Deputy grand master, H. A. Taylor, Osceola.
Grand secretary, E. S. Davis, North Platte.
Grand treasurer, Frank B. Bryant, Omaha.

The officers appointed by the grand master were:

The Rebekahs' assembly elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. Mary Frush, Wahoo; vice president, Mrs. Rosalie Crabtree, Lincoln; warden, Mrs. Lois Harris, Lynch; secretary, Mrs. Emma Talbot, Lincoln; treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Stuht, Omaha.

Miss Meita Taylor, of Blair, was elected delegate to the association of Rebekahs' assembly and Mrs. Mary Caldwell Auburn was elected a member of the York home board.

SERVE BUT SHORT TERM

Two Gypsies Let Out of Jail On Order of the County Physician.

Mother and daughter, Mary and Annie Mattes, members of a large band of gypsies who were detained by police in Lincoln October 9 pending investigation of alleged depredations at Havelock, were sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge Hawes on October 10 when they pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny. A third woman was let off with a $1 fine because of her small child.

Several days ago they were released by order of Dr. Sawyer, county physician. The reason for granting them freedom was given as delicate physical condition. Officials at the county jail were desirous of securing the gypsies' release for humanitarian reasons, they told Dr. Sawyer. They first went to Judge Hawes who refused to act on the matter because he had no authority to do so.

Deputy County Attorney Young said that the state law gives the county physician power to order and secure the release of prisoners from the county jail under such conditions.

When taken to the county jail by the police the two women are alleged to have made the boast that they would not be there very long.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Red Rose dancing club members, with a few guests, met at the Glass Acres party house Thursday evening for the second party of the season. Palms, ferns and pink roses formed an attractive decorative scheme for the party, which included several old time dances as features of the evening's entertainment. Punch was served all evening. Thirty couples were present. D. L. Tyrrell is president of the club, which holds parties the first and third Thursday evenings of each month.

The Betty Alden club of First Plymouth church met for dinner at 6 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of the teacher, Mrs. L. E. Tait, 1645 Washington street. Thirty members and guests were present, and dinner was served in buffet style. Large bunches of bittersweet and fall flowers made attractive decorations thru the rooms. During the evening a program was presented by members of the club, followed by games and other informal entertainment.

Miss Frances Westering and Miss Pauline Tait entertained at a miscellaneous shower and bridge party Thursday evening at the home of Miss Westering, honoring Miss Virginia McKinnon. There were five tables of players. Gold and yellow were the colors chosen for all the appointments, and hearts and cupids were use din decoration, with bittersweet. Mrs. Gail Ballenger of Oakland, Cal., a sister of Miss McKinnon, was an out-of-town guest.

Sigma Kappa sorority will have as guests over the week-end the following alumnae members: Mabel Holman, Auburn; Mary Cameron, Falls City; Millicent Jaeke, Pawnee; Ann Anderson, Central City; Florilla Nye, Wisner; Mary and Arbutus Wilson, Beloit, Kas.; Charlotte Kizer, York, and Dorothy and Mary Ellen Whelpley, Fremont. There will be an informal dinner Saturday evening at the chapter house in honor of the alumnae.

Gamma Phi Beta will entertain the returning alumnae of the sorority at a homecoming dinner at the chapter house Saturday evening. Among those who will be present are Belle Farman, Holdrege; Helen Kummer, Columbus; Mildred Miller, Mrs. Darrell Dudley and Mrs. Walter Weber from Norfolk; Marie Walker and Genevieve Clark, Gibbon, Marjorie Campbell, Fremont; Rebecca Miller, Corydon, Ia., Ethel Whalen, Omaha, Josephine Gund, Red Cloud; and Reba Maynard, Broken Bow.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bird of Fairmont, Minn., were in Lincoln for a short time Thursday and were the luncheon guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bixby. They are en route to their winter home in Long Beach and are making the trip by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindholm of Davey will hold open house for their neighbors and friends from 2 to 5 o'clock on October 28 in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Mrs. S. Avery will be at home to callers all Friday afternoon. For a number of years she has observed the custom of keeping every third Friday afternoon for callers.

Mrs. R. M. Gross of Los Angeles is visiting in the city as the guest of Mrs. W. S. Scott, 1429 L street.

The employes of the National Bank of Commerce held a dinner at the Lindell hotel Thursday evening. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mrs. J. B. Stockman and son Paul of University Place, left Thursday for Akron, Ohio, where they will visit Mrs. Stockman's son Harold J., who is a chemist for the Goodrich Rubber company of Akron.

One of the most elaborate of the fall dancing parties was the Halloween dinner dance given Thursday evening at the Lincoln hotel by the Saturday Night club. The tables were arranged in the shape of a T with the long part of the letter extending down the center of the room. Orange candles decorated with black witches and cats, held in crystal holders, were alternated along the entire length of the tables with witch dolls in fluffy orange dresses and wiggling heads. The orange and black nut cups contained candies of the same colors, and the place cards attached to the nut cups were black cats and witches. All the ceiling lights in the ballroom were subdued with orange paper inside the globes. Streamers of orange paper decorated with silhouettes of black cats and witches fluttered from the chandeliers. The cluster lights along the walls of the ballroom had orange and black shades over the two outer globes, while the third light in the center of the group was transformed into a lantern. The orchestra stage was decorated with cornstalks on a trellis. Lighted pumpkin faces showed thru an opening in the center, while back of them were trees decorated with festoons of orange paper. A row of black cats to block the path of the superstitious, were strung across the entrance to the ballroom, with cornstalks at each side of the door, back of pedestals holding lighted pumpkin faces. Forty couples attended the party, including as guests Miss Johanna Ogden, Harold V. B. Brown, Mrs. R. W. Wintersteen, Dr. Earl Deppen, Mrs. Funke and Ralph Lounsbury. The committee in charge of the party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Latsch, chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Cole and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carlsen.

Delta Chi fraternity will entertain at their annual homecoming party and banquet this week end honoring out of town alumni who will be in the city for the Colgate-Nebraska game. The party will be given Friday night at Rosewilde and will be chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Mickey, Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Harbour and Prof. and Mrs. Henry A. Nedon. The decorations will be carried out in the fraternity colors, buff and red. On Saturday evening the banquet will be held at the University club. Among the out-of-town guests will be F. B. Walrath, Fred A. Brinkman, Howard L. Updegraff, Stuart Gould, Omaha; Leonard Dean, Glenwood, Ia.; H. B. Porterfield, Sidney, Ia.; Byron Dorn, South Sioux City; T. H. Stryker, Kearney; R. M. Tibbetts, Hastings; E. E. Crook, Philley; Paul L. Martin, Sidney; Glen Pierce, Coleridge; Fuller Austin, Walton; John C. Mullen, Falls City; Otto F. Walter, Columbus; P. A. Siren, Hastings; L. F. Klein, Crete.

Miss Grace Schermerhorn, who for a number of years was supervisor of home economics in the New York public schools and is now associate editor of the "Child Health Magazine" of the association, will speak to students of home economics and physical education in the University at Social Science auditorium Friday at 1 p. m. She will speak on "Health of College Students." At 4 o'clock she will address the home economic teachers of the city schools at room 113, Social Science hall. She will talk to the city principals and supervisors at 2:45 p. m. Monday. Miss Schermerhorn will arrive in Lincoln Friday morning.

The Lincoln League of Women Voters will entertain at tea Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. club rooms. Prof. J. P. Senning will talk on "The Pros and Cons of the State Constitutional Amendment." This amendment provides that nominations for all national, state and county offices, filled by popular election, shall be by direct primary and that in any local politics in the state, no party name, circle or designation shall appear on official ballots used in nomination and election of candidates for office.

Alpha Delta Theta sorority has planned a house dance for forty couples as its homecoming celebration for Saturday evening. Dr. Lida B. Walker, Dr. Laura B. Pfeiffer and the house mother, Mrs. H. J. Hill, will chaperon the party. Among the out of town guests for homecoming will be Ruth Lamme, Fremont; Goldie Johnson, Clarkson; Edith Saal, Arnold; Edith Merriman, Omaha; and Marjorie Schobert and Marie Schaab, Papillion.

Over two hundred students of the state university gathered on the drill field of the university at about 10:30 p. m. Thursday and gave vent to their enthusiasm over the approaching game between Nebraska and Colgate Saturday by about twenty minutes of cheering and singing of Cornhusker songs. A small group began the rally and in a few minutes the gathering was increased to a large throng. A rally is planned for early Friday evening by the students. One of the features will be a torchlight parade thru the main part of the city.

SCHUERMAN BOUND OVER AFTER TRIAL

DeWitt Farmer, Alleged to Have Shot and Killed George Reinmiller, Given Preliminary Hearing.

BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 16.—Edward Schuerman, farmer of the DeWitt vicinity, who shot and killed George Reinmiller of DeWitt on the highway just over the Gage county line on the morning of October 10, was bound over to the district court by Judge Fred Messmore Thursday afternoon at the conclusion of Schuerman's preliminary hearing in county court.

The hearing was attended by a large crowd, among whom were many farmers and residents of DeWitt and vicinity. Schuerman was represented by Attorney Frank Bartos, of Wilber, while County Attorney Harold Mattoon represented the state. Five witnesses were examined by the state and three for the defendant, Mrs. Laura Reinmiller, mother of the murdered man, and his sisters, Mollie Reinmiller and Mrs. Charles Tully, being examined relative to the knowledge of a love affair between Reinmiller and Schuerman's wife.

Mrs. Reinmiller testified that Schuerman had come to her and complained relative to the love affair between her son and his wife and had urged her to warn her son to keep away from his home. The sister, Mollie, turned over a large number of love letters found in the Reinmiller home, which had been sent by Mrs. Schuerman to her brother. These letters were introduced in evidence but were not read. Charles Ross, Rock Island foreman, who was walking with Reinmiller to work on the morning of the tragedy, testified that the first he noted was when Schuerman drove up in an automobile, armed with a shotgun.

He asserted that Schuerman acted like a crazy man, and that as he drew his gun and fired, Reinmiller jumped behind him and begged Schuerman not to shoot. Firing a second time, Schuerman's aim was better, the contents of the shotgun striking Reinmiller in the back of the neck and the third shot in the body. Schuerman then exclaimed that "at last I have killed him," and drove away. Supervisor Jess Buss was also an eye witness of the tragedy, and heard the shot, but was not close enough to identify the man committing the deed. The defendant was not called to the stand. Other witnesses examined by the state were an undertaker and Dr. Gross of Dewitt, who was first called to the scene and took charge of Reinmiller's body. Schuerman was bound over to the jury term of district court which convenes in November, without bond. The suit of clothes and other apparel worn by Reinmiller and the shotgun belonging to Schuerman were introduced in evidence by the state.

PROCEED IN LIQUOR CASE

Grand Island Officer Dismissed After State Agents Give Evidence.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 16.—Developments are taking place in the incident of the arrest by police of a party of North Platte men en route to the Illinois-Nebraska football game and their immediate release by order of Mayor Ellsberry. Thru state enforcement officials John Doe warrants are being served at North Platte on the person or persons in possession of the liquor seized at the time. A few days after the incident the liquor was turned over by Officer Henry to the state enforcement officers. Last night Officer Henry was obliged, by requested resignation, to deliver his star and quit the service. Whether he will ask for a hearing is not certain.

Chief of Police Campbell is carrying out the requests of the county attorney to serve the warrants on the North Platte party. Mayor Ellsberry stated at the time of the release, that he thought it the thing to do to let the men proceed to Lincoln in their cars, but to keep the two large bottles of alleged liquor they had, assuring the men, at the time, that if the state desired to prosecute for intoxication or transportation, the facts and the bottles would be available to the state. Because of the conduct of the parties in cities west of here, it is alleged that telephone notification had been sent ahead to the police officers at the time. It is alleged by police authorities that Officer Henry had not in other matters given the cooperation necessary to discipline on the force.

DOCTOR PURSUES PATIENT

Man Who Appeared at City Clinic for Treatment Takes Sudden Flight.

Clad in his white apron, Dr. M. F. Arnholt, physician at the free clinic maintained by the city, gave pursuit to a prospective patient of his venereal ward Thursday. The man appeared at the clinic voluntarily and awaited in line his turn for examination. Once inside the doctor's quarters he became nervous and each time his gaze uncovered some wicked looking surgical instrument, his nervousness increased.

When the doctor had finished preliminary tasks and was ready to examine the man, he edged toward the exit. At the doctor's command to come back, he burst into wild flight and left the health department's upstairs headquarters at Tenth and Q, three steps at a jump.

Dr. Arnholt followed, white apron fluttering in the breeze. Around the south side of the building where the fire department's No. 1 station is housed, they sprinted. Dr. Arnholt managed to catch the attention of Officer Towle who was standing in front of the police station a few doors away.

Together they pursued the reluctant patient thru the municipal coal yards. Officer Towle relayed the race for the winded physician and overtook the victim on the far side of a huge pile of coal. There he squared off to the officer and refused to be taken asserting that divine powers would care for him and that he didn't need a doctor.

He was taken to the city jail where he is being held for treatment. He said that his name was George Ralph, that he was forty-three years old and a laborer and has been traveling from place to place of late years.

BROTHER OF M'ADOO COMING

Will Make Speaking Tour in the State During Next Week.

A telegram received by Otto Mutz, from National LaFollette headquarters Thursday evening announces that Malcolm Ross McAdoo, brother of William Gibbs McAdoo in addition to several other speaking dates in Nebraska will fill an engagement in Lincoln next Wednesday. The other Nebraska dates as announced in the telegram are as follows: October 23, Omaha; October 24, North Platte in the afternoon; October 24, Grand Island, in the evening. Further information will be received later, according to Mr. Mutz.

SAYS RAILROADS PLAY FAVORITES

Schuyler Sand Man Says Favored Group Near Big Cities Grab Up Most Profitable Business.

Manager Ehrenberger of the Platte Valley Sand & Gravel company testified in the hearing before the railway commission Thursday afternoon that by reason of the railroads playing favorites in giving a group of pit owners within fifty miles of Omaha and Lincoln lower rates than he can get, he is discriminated against and barred out of profitable territory.

The witness said that this constituted a wall which those outside could not penetrate unless they absorbed a large amount of what they received for their product, and this did not pay. He said that the rate of 3 cents a hundred is given those inside the zone, while he must pay 3 1-2 cents on his out shipments. This results, where there is more than one railroad concerned in the haul from his pit, in his paying a higher rate than a single haul line will charge to carry it from a greater distance.

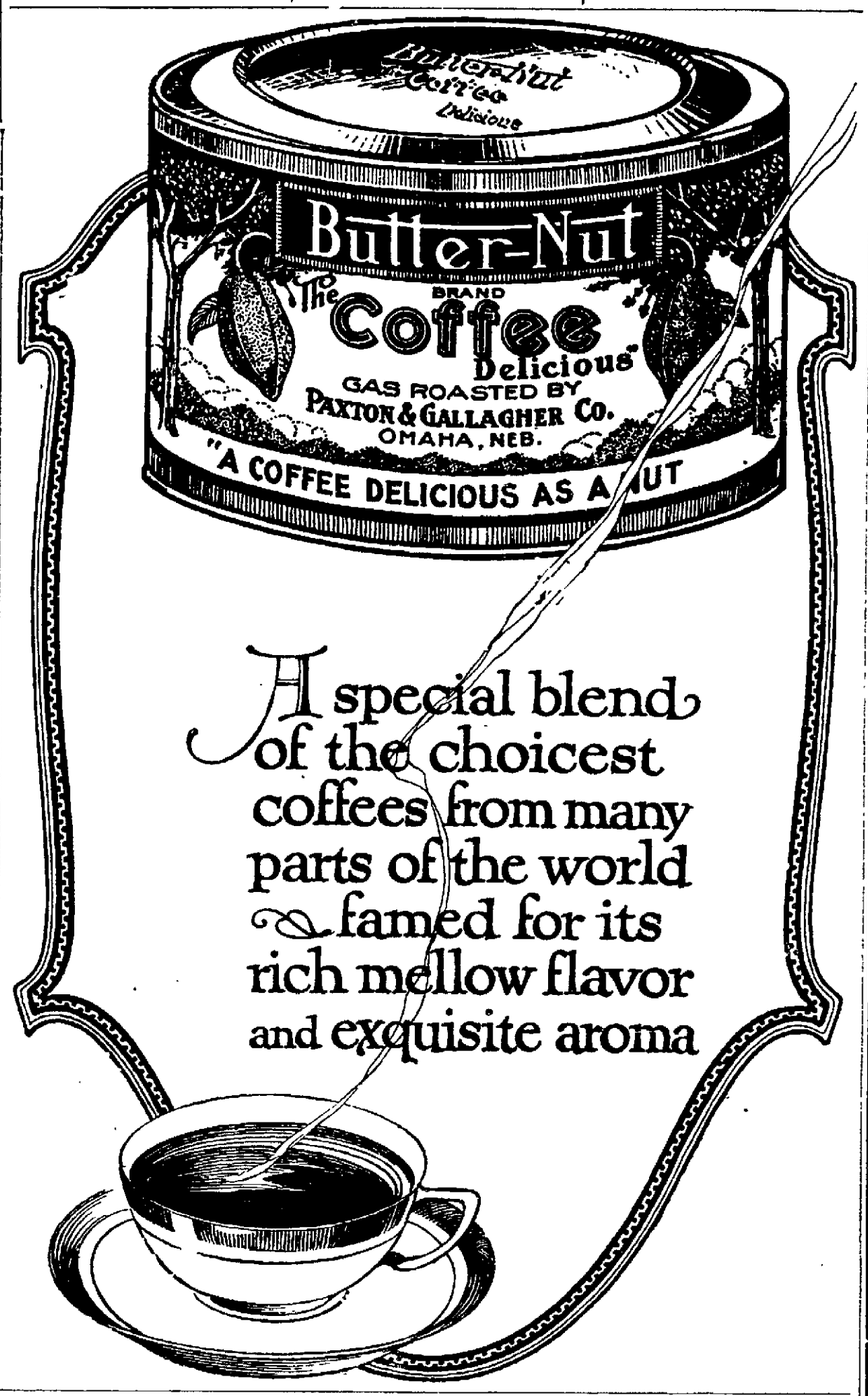

He said that he had offered sand to the Burlington for 15 cents a ton, but the officials preferred to haul it clear across the state. "That's the kind of efficiency they have," he added. At another time he said that the railroads were subsidized by the government to the extent of several millions every year or so. He complained that he had to pay 70 cents to have a ton of sand worth 15 cents hauled seven miles. His suggestion was that the railroads create several zones with step-ups in rates.

The sand dealers represented were not all of the same opinion, and the commission sat all day listening to what they had to suggest.

The hearing is an inquiry instituted by the commission to ascertani if the best interests of the consuming public would be better served if the railroads were required to put in joint rates instead of adding the two local rates together when a shipment goes over two roads. The railroads insist that there are enough pits in the state to supply all cities and towns by single hauls, as all are located on some railroad. They also say that the expense of switching is a deterrent and that delay would often be caused to road hauls if road engines had to switch at junction points.

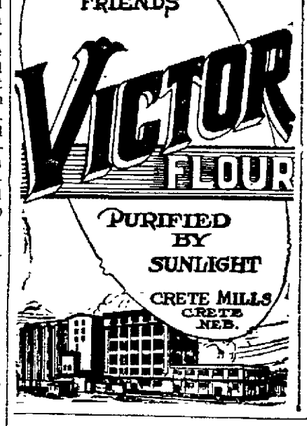

STATE RED CROSS TO MEET

A state meeting of delegates from all of the Red Cross chapters in Nebraska will be held in Lincoln October 23. The sessions will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday at the Lincoln hotel. The purpose of the meeting is to draft plans for a roll call and to discuss work of the various chapters in order that the others may profit from the information. The meeting is called by L. W. Trester, state diretcor, who will preside at the convention. There are 106 Red Cross chapters in the state.

How to Arrange Your Hair in the Most Becoming Way

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

THE woman who appears always at her best is the woman who knows not only how to cultivate beauty by the proper care of herself, but also how to make the best of the beauty which is allowed to her.

A well-developed body and a smooth complexion go a long way toward making any woman lovely, but they can count for twice as much if she knows how to clothe her body for the greatest becomingness and how to arrange her hair to suit her features.

A lovely figure can have its charm entirely overshadowed by ill-chosen clothes. In the same way, a beautiful complexion and pretty eyes are not nearly as effective as they should be if the hair of their owner is poorly arranged.

Even beautiful hair loses much of its charm when it is allowed to straggle about, or when it is unbecomingly arranged.

On the other hand, the woman whose hair is not so lovely as she would like to have it, can do much to make it appear as her best claim to beauty if she knows just how to arrange it.

"But how can I find this out?" you ask. The best way, my dear reader, is to study your features and ascertain the manner of hairdressing which sets your features off to best advantage.

Of course you may have bobbed hair, and if you have you doubtless know that there are almost as many ways of cutting and parting bobbed hair as there are ways of arranging hair that is long.

The manner in which your hair is bobbed depends much upon the taste of your barber, and whether you part it on the side, or in the middle or do not part it at all. This you can try out for yourself, or with the aid of the person who cuts your hair for you and keeps it trimmed.

I have given other talks on ways of doing bobbed hair, and now I want to speak to the person who possesses long locks and would like to know how to arrange them to best beauty advantage.

If you have features of the Grecian type, that is, clear-cut with a straight nose, why not try the effective, simple manner of doing your hair that is sketched here? You may part it or brush it back from your face, allowing it to wave softly at the sides or to make a perfectly straight line. These smaller details depend upon its becomingness to you. Then you may braid it and twine it about your head, or simply brush it smoothly about your head, without braiding. It takes fairly long hair to reach about the head, and yours may not be long enough. In that case you can brush it back in the same way, but roll it into a low knot at your neck. Either of these coiffures is in keeping with the Greek types.

In direct contrast to this type is the coiffure shown in the other sketch. It is for the girl or woman with more tiptilted nose. She should allow her hair to be much more fluffy in effect. If it is not naturally so, she can curl it, and allow it to mass softly about her face, ending in a loose low knot at the back.

A little time may be required in the study of your features, before you can attain the desired result, but once you have succeeded in adopting a style of hair dressing which you feel assured is becoming, you have taken a long step forward in perfecting your beauty, or enhancing your features so that they will appear to the best advantage. Every woman owes it to herself to make the most of her good points, and the coiffure is the crowning glory of your efforts, and amply repays your care.

SO Marion had been right, after all, in thinking she had seen a face looking in at us through my bedroom window. I made a mental apology to the child as, by the aid of my flashlight, I saw the print of feet on the veranda roof outside the window. It was all the more fervent an acknowledgment because I knew that I must never frighten her by telling her that she had been correct in her surmise.

Conjecture, fantastic and terrifying, began to have its way with me. Marion had referred to the lurking figure as "he," and the word brought a slender reassurance. Curiously enough I did not feel fear at the thought of an ordinary burglarious marauder.

The presence above all others which I dreaded was that of a woman, the woman who had trailed her sinister shadow across my life since the first year of my marriage. If Grace Draper had escaped the espionage of Harry Underwood who had told me he would make it impossible for her to come near me!

I caught my breath in hysterical relief as I saw that the footprints while not large for a man, were still not made by Grace Draper's slender, high-arched feet.

I raised the sash still farther, and clambered out upon the roof, scrutinizing the footprints carefully. At first I thought they were made by bare feet, then I realized that there were no separate toe prints such as naked feet would have left. On the other hand, shoes of the ordinary kind never had made those flat, shapeless impressions. Bedroom slippers — woolen ones, moccasins, sandals—some one of the three varieties of footgear had been worn by the mysterious marauder.

Leaning over the flat roof, I swept my flashlight from side to side, although I knew it to be a futile gesture. Then a window at the other end of the veranda, Dicky's shot suddenly upward, and my husband leaned out, changing a gruff "Who's there?" to an astonished:

"Madge! What in blazes are you doing on that roof? Stand perfectly still until I come and get you. Why, you blasted little idiot, you're likely to fall and break your neck!"

Why Madge Hesitated.

Why is it, I wonder, that roughness if accompanied by alarm for her safety, always thrills a woman when evinced by the man she loves. I adored the raucousness of Dicky's voice, but I answered him lightly, as I moved toward the window.

He had sprung out of the window as I spoke, and now came swiftly toward me, grasping my arm firmly as he reached me.

"That may all be, but just take it from me," he quoted grimly, "you're going to go through this window faster than you came out. What's the big idea, anyway, of this Diogenes lantern business? Were you expecting to find an honest man on the veranda roof?"

"No, a dishonest one." The retort rose to my lips, but I closed them upon it, with a curious reluctance to let Dicky know the real reason for my ridiculous excursion.

I told myself that it was because I did not wish to have him go rushing around the grounds and into possible danger, as he certainly would do if I showed him the footprints I had seen, and over which we were even now walking. But there was something deep in my consciousness which was stronger even than my fear for him, something which bade me wait and investigate by myself the odd thing which had happened.

"I'll Take Mother In."

"I thought the cat was on the roof and couldn't get down," I prevaricated smoothly, as Dicky assisted me through the window. He looked down at me oddly.

"Tell another one, old dear," he advised carelessly. "You need practice. You've too much Puritan in your make-up to reel 'em off in the style affected by your noble young husband. But keep your little secrets—" this with a magnaminous wave of the hand. "Far be it from me to pry when you get your Sherlock pickers on. How about the mending?"

"Part of the things are done," I said. "The rest I'll finish tonight. Here, you can pack all of these, and I'll bring the rest to you as fast as I finish them."

He looked down at the pile of clothing I put in his arms with an abashed, rueful expression.

"By Jove, I did hand you an armfull, didn't I?" he queried. "I'm really ashamed of myself about this afternoon. I'll tell you what. I'll take Mother in, myself. It'll drive me nearly wild, but I guess I can stand her shopping around for one day."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18.

Splended conditions for business, employment and affairs generally are predicted from this day's Lunar transits, since Sol, Saturn and Mars are in trine aspect with the moon. This should bring activity, progress and substantial growth to all enterprises, with increase of business and money and advancement, honors or distinction for those who are qualified, in the employment of others. Old obstacles may be removed to make way for new operations of lasting benefit, and an aggressive and courageous spirit should develop new and important projects.

Those whose birthday it is have the forecast of a very active and progressive year, with substantial return for industry and initiative. Money and business should increase, and those in the employment of others are under good auspices. A child born on this day should be industrious, persevering and enterprising, as well as bold, resolute and resourceful. These qualities should assist it to rise in life to substantial position in business.

YOUR HEALTH

Here's the Wise Method of "Breaking Up" a Cold

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

United States Senator from New York,

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

COUGHS and colds we have with us all the time. At any and every season of the year they come to annoy us.

Scientists are trying to find out what causes colds. Of course there are a lot of things recognized by everyone as factors, but nobody has been able to prove that some particular germ is responsible for the attacks.

It is probable there is more than one germ at fault as the causes of colds. There appear to be many forms of the disease. The cold may begin with a slight chill and then be followed by sneezing and running of the nose. It may begin with throat symptoms, which gradually extend to the nasal passages. It may be slow in its progress or come on with amazing suddenness.

There are as many remedies for a cold as there are physicians in the world. One of my doctor friends insists that the patient must stay in the house in a warm room, and if convenient, sit beside a hot stove or fireplace. Another doctor friend drives his patients into the open air and sunshine.

Both doctors are successful, but I am wondering whether it is not the rest and change that do the work, rather than the hot air or the cool air. Most of us do our work during the closed-in season in stuffy, poorly-ventilated and perhaps dusty or smoke-filled rooms. To stay home in a sweet and clean place, or to go out into the pure air, is a real treat anyhow and may have much to do with speedy return to health.

What you will do for a cold depends on your willingness to submit to the demands of time and common-sense. If you will do the sensible thing you can "break up" a cold in its very beginning. You ask me how?

Go home and fill the tub with water hot as you can stand. While this is getting ready, take a tablespoonful of milk of magnesia, followed by a glassful of hot water.

By this time your bath is ready. Stay in it half an hour. Then go to bed between blankets and stay there at least a full hour.

By this time you will be sweating freely. At the end of the hour, sponge off with alcohol or cool water. Dry thoroughly and get into a dry bed, between sheets this time. Have your room well-ventilated and settle down for sleep, staying there till morning.

Nine times out of ten you will get up, free from symptoms of a cold and ready for your regular duties. If not, loaf for another day.

At this season of the year there are lots of colds. You will come in contact with infected persons all the time. On this account you must use care to guard against "catching cold." There is no doubt of the infectious nature of this disease and you must exercise care to avoid it.

Wash your hands frequently. Never eat till your hands are clean. When you get home at night wash your face and hands with soap and water. Wash out the openings of your nostrils and clean your teeth frequently.

Keep your stomach and bowels in good condition. Get plenty of fresh air daily, sleep enough and by building up your general health, protect yourself against colds and all other ailments.

Answers to Health Questions

WORRIED JACQ. Q.—How can I make my face plump?

A.—It is difficult to develop one portion of the body without developing the entire body. However massaging the face with cocoa butter or olive oil may help to make it plump.

* * *

N. N. Q.—Is it harmful to take a bath every day?

A.—No, this is desirable, not harmful.

* * *

MRS. J. Z. Q.—How can a person treat consumption?

2.—What causes the blood to rush to my face and head, when I bend my head down?

2—This is a natural condition.

LOW SHOES FOR LATE FALL

Simplicity Is Once More the Height of Good Shoe Taste

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

THE new shoes show the trend toward simplicity that also prevailed in the smartest Spring fashions. This does not mean utter simplicity, by any means. It simply means that there are fewer very ornate cut-out treatments, and also fewer straps than formerly.

Where ornamentation prevails, it often appears in the form of appliques of contrasting leather, or in leather of a lighter tone than that which appears in the slipper.

Patent leather is the leading medium, with tan Russia calf and tan and black kid also quite popular. Kid was formerly considered more of a Spring medium, and its endorsement for Fall is of interest in the fashion world.

Lizard skin is one of the smart trimmings, and it appears in attractive designs on both black and tan leathers. A small lizard-trimmed slipper is seen in the model sketched here, of black patent leather with lizard banding about the slipper, the lizard extending down on the patent leather in points.

The plain opera pump is very good, and also versions of the opera pump with slight cut-out treatments about the instep. It is smart in golden-brown satin for afternoon, and of course black satin is as smart as it ever was. Black velvet is also good in the plain opera pump for afternoon and evening wear.

The walking shoes sketched here, of tan Russian calf, with fringed tongue treatment, are ideal for street wear with the ensemble suit. The regulation oxford type is also coming back into favor, due, no doubt, to the popularity of the ensemble suit and the trim little cloth frock for day wear.

Evening slippers continue to favor gold and silver kid. Often the two mediums are combined, as in a silver slipper trimmed with gold banding.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Big Songs and Little Folks

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THE GREAT SINGER gave us an evening the other night.

It was a great surprise. We were all sitting by the fire—the most joyous, sparkling, hurrah here-we-are-again fire you ever saw!

The day was a little coolish, but nothing to notice—but at night when the wind came crawling in from the sea he brought his wife, the rain, with him, and a great to do they made dancing on the roof and shaking the windows and whirring round and round outside the door and shrieking down the chimney and saying over and over as plain as plain:

"Warm days are going! Warm days are going, you'll have to get used to us now!"

He Sang the Sunshine Back

So we swept the hearth with the little hearthbroom and brought in some great sticks of fragrant eucalyptus—a few branches, too, of laurel and eucalyptus and magnolia.

Flash—what a conflagration!

Spark, sputter, how those leaves did love to burn and wasn't it beautiful to see them when they were nothing but fiery shapes outlined in sparks—and the resonant perfume of them, why, they brought the woods and the fields straight into the room and made us feel as if we lived outdoors, after all!

And all at once came the Great Singer.

Wrapped in a raincoat and in his high boots and storm hat—whew, how the drops flew when he shook his great hat! And how the children laughed to see him shiver and pretend to swim with his great arms outspread and his sinewy hands cleaving the make-believe water!

He sat by the fire and watched the burning of the eucalyptus and the magnolias and the laurel—just like a child, he was, so delighted with the fragrance and the beauty and the comfort of it all.

And suddenly he began to sing an old, old song. He got it, he said, upon the steppes of Russia when he was a little boy and helped to drive the cattle there.

Such a song of loneliness and longing—it melted the heart to hear it.

And then he sang a boat song—that was from Russia, too, and it was wild and full of the splendid vigor of men who live and work on the wild ocean.

And then he sang some Italian folk songs—things about cradles and shrines, and roses and vineyards all in purple fruitage, and Beatricci singing in the vineyard.

And German songs, he sang—one about the linden tree, how full it was of youth and youthful wistfulness.

"Drink to me only with thine eyes," ah, yes, he sang the English ballads, too, and "My love is like the red, red rose"—what an evening, what a joy!

A World of Petty Questions

And very late we made a dish of cooked meats and fritters and brewed pots of coffee, and I'm afraid it was close to morning when we let the singer go.

And the next day when we started to talk of him and his songs, the little lady from the country said, "Is he married?" and when we all laughed, she didn't see why. And then she wanted to know where he lived and—oh, a million little things besides.

I'm glad the great singer couldn't hear her.

He'd never want to open his mouth again if he did.

Poor little lady, I wonder if she's never interested in anything on earth but who and when and how much and where.

It must be terrible to live in a world like that, all full of little clogging, interrupting, stupid, uninteresting, personal affairs, don't you think?

Three-Minute Journeys By Temple Manning

WHERE FEASTING ENDS IN GENERAL WASHING.

WATCHING a group of Burmese natives prepare dinner is always an interesting sight. Table etiquette is unknown among the happy and contented people of Burma, and feasting is the one big interest in their lives.

Preparation for the daily meal is the occasion for much excitement and hustle-bustle. According to the custom of far-off East, the women of the land are obliged to do most of the heavy work. To the Burman woman is assigned the task of caring for the family besides preparing the regular daily meal.

First she brings forth the provision box containing foods and cooking utensils, and the whole family crowd about her, anxious to discover the contents of the tin box. Stray bugs, beetles and other species of insects will sometimes crawl into the cooking outfit and make themselves comfortable in stone jugs and rice bowls.

Rice and curry are put into these rice-bowls and placed over a large fire to boil for several hours. It oftentimes happens that a few bugs and beetles are accidentally cooked in with the food but this fact does not bother the natives at all. The thought of a mere insect or two being boiled in with his rice does not prevent a hungry Burman from enjoying his meal.

After a Burmese Feast.

The family sit all around the rice-bowl and pick out and eat the curry and rice with their fingers. When the meal is over they all troop down to the nearest river, chatting and jesting with one another. On reaching the river, they rinse their mouths out with the river water, the same water used in cooking their food. Not only do they wash their mouths, but their hands, face and feet are also cleaned with a piece of dirty rag, which they pass from one to the other.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl, nineteen years of age, and very much in love with a young man, with whom I have been going the past year. He has been acting very strange of late and I think his love is gradually cooling.

In his position he comes into contact with a great many girls, but his dealings with them are only in a business way. I can see no reason on earth for his reverse of feelings. I love him more than life itself and would do anything in my power to hold his affections.

Won't you please give me your advice in this matter, as I am almost frantic in my efforts to please and hold him? BESSIE.

BESSIE: Don't lose your head, dear, for this is the time that you need it most. It is possible that your great fear of losing the young man has made you oversolicitous and anxious in your manner. Sometimes a little coolness and indifference is very tantalizing. You must learn how to mix your cordiality with an occasional dash of coquetry. The young man has probably come to feel that he knows you too thoroughly to find any more interest in you. Reverse some of your customary tactics and you will probably startle him into interest again. You must never allow yourself to become set. You should always be growing and adding to your interest. This is a bit of advice that holds not only for this case, but always.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two new girls in the city and desire to get acquainted with some young people. We have gone alone to dances on several occasions, and each time young men have asked to escort us home, but we have not accepted. We are wondering if it is proper to accept such an invitation, and do you think we would make these men our friends by doing so?

PUZZLED GIRLS.

PUZZLED GIRLS: If the young men have been introduced to you, there is no reason why you should not allow them to take you home. After all, that is how we usually make friends. Whether the acquaintance will develop into friendship depends entirely on yourselves.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Madge Geyer

PEGGY HAS A CHAT WITH THE PAINTED LADY'S YOUNGEST.

PEGGY spied the funny little yellow and black caterpillar on the thistle plant and went up closer so she could see it more plainly. Its general coloring was yellow with black markings and it had many tiny pines sticking up.

"Gracious me, aren't you afraid to crawl over that thorny thistle, little caterpillar?" Peggy asked. "I'd love to gather some of these purple thistle blossoms, but I can't stand the prickles."

"My!" laughed the wee yellow and black caterpillar. "You shouldn't be so touchy. What would I have done had I been afraid of pricking my feet?"

"But why do you play around on the thistle when you have so many weeds around here that have no thorns?" Peggy asked.

"Because my mother put her eggs here and expected me to hatch out," laughed Mr. Caterpillar. "I guess Mother Painted-Lady knows why she lays her eggs on the thistle plant. I don't."

"Painted Lady!" Peggy exclaimed. "Are you one of her children?"

"Certainly I am," replied the caterpillar, "and I'm mighty proud of it too. You know her, don't you? Isn't she a beauty? My, I shall be the happiest little caterpillar in the world when I build my third house then——"

"Build your third house?" interrupted Peggy. "What has building your third house to do with it? Where is your house, anyway? How do you build it?"

"Well, of all things!" laughed Mr. Caterpillar merrily. "You certainly can ask questions, can't you? Oh, well, I guess if children didn't ask questions they'd never learn.

"I build three houses, sometimes more. You see, when I first hatched from the egg, I made this house," and he showed Peggy a webby house on the underside of one of the thistle leaves.

"Then when my body grew too large for that house, I made this one," and he showed Peggy where he had drawn the edges of a large leaf together with silken webs.

"Now I am using it, but when I grow still larger I'll have to build another house. I haven't made up my mind yet whether I shall use the third house to change in or whether I'll hunt some other place.

"We have our choice, you know. The third nest is the hardest of all to make, for it's made from leaves and stems woven together with webs. I think I'll just use my third nest for my last, because I stay in the chrysalis stage for about ten days, then I hatch out into a Painted Lady."

"I shall watch for you then," Peggy laughed. "And if I don't recognize you, will you please let me know who you are?"

"Indeed I will," replied the yellow and black caterpillar. "And I'll visit your flower garden every day. If you'll excuse me now I'll go to rest," and the funny little spiney caterpillar slipped into his leaf house and nothing Peggy could do would get him out again.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Five Easy Recipes for the Fish Course.

Codfish Tarts.

Boil a pound of codfish and carefully flake it with a fork. Make a rich cream sauce and add to it the juice of an onion, juice of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, a tablespoonful of washed capers, halved, pepper, salt and a quarter teaspoonful of sugar. Add the fish. Line deep tartlet pans with the mixture, lattice the tops with tiny strips of paste and bake until the crust is done. Garnish with a spray of fresh watercress. Serve deviled eggs with the tarts.

Savory Sole.

Select a thick, heavy flounder and have it filleted. Rinse the fillets, then poach them in hot water to which add a half teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of vinegar. When done lift with a skimmer to a buttered dish that will stand oven heat. Sprinkle with the juice of a half lemon and a half onion. Bake five minutes, dredge with a little flour and cook until a delicate brown. Serve in the dish that the fish is cooked in, and garnish with sliced lemon dipped in chopped parsley. Serve mint jelly and broiled potatoes with the dish.

Salmon Fritters.

Flake finely a small can of salmon which should yield about a cupful. Have ready a batter made of a level cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a tablespoonful of cornstarch, a saltspoonful each of salt and sugar, one beaten egg, a tablespoonful of melted butter and a half cupful of milk. Beat the batter very smoothly, then add the flaked fish. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat and cook a delicate brown. Serve the fritters in a napkin with tartar sauce.

Scalloped Fish in Ramekins.

Take cold fish left from boiled or broiled fish and flake enough to make a full cup or a little more. Add to the fish a half cupful of crumbs, a beaten egg, juice of an onion, a chopped hard boiled egg, and a teaspoonful of finely minced red pepper. Fill buttered ramekins lightly with the mixture and add a tablespoonful of cream to each one. Bake ten or twelve minutes or until they are a delicate brown. Garnish with parsley.

Cod in Tomato Jelly.

Cook a can of tomatoes with celery, parsley, peppers and seasoning. Add a half packet of gelatine and when melted strain the mixture over a cupful of cold flaked fish. Turn into individual moulds and set to harden. Serve on lettuce leaves.

THERE are so many types that we hesitate to feature any one. We mention however, two important price groups —representing special values—

ONE LOT OF FUR TRIMMED COATS

A special purchase brings very unusual coats at a popular price. You expect and can get a very good coat at this price, especially if you choose now. Soft suede like fabrics and pile coatings in the newer shades and styles—trimmed with squirrel, beaver, Australian opossum, Manchurian wolf, sealine, etc. Many penny, rust and brown shades. For little women as well as other types. $68

A SPLENDID GROUP OF COATS

Flat surfaced and pile fabrics including veloria, fashona, moccasin cloth constanza, gerona, velnewvo, etc. Shutter green, Lebanon green, black, kit fox gray, rust and new brown shades. Trimmed with Havana fitch, Hudson seal, cinnamon fox, Japanese mink, marmink, beaver, etc. There are many exceptional styles in this lot —a wide variety from which to choose. $100

The Madison Telephone company was given a hearing Friday on an application for permission to issue $20,000 worth of additional stock, largely to pay for the Tilden Telephone company that it has recently absorbed. The commission engineer filed a report that the original cost of the Tilden plant was $25,335 and that its present value is $16,155. The Madison company has a large plant, but only $10,750 of stock is outstanding against it.

Glen Troth and Roy Brownell of Holt county appealed Saturday to the supreme court to secure a reversal of a judgment for $22,335 and an order selling their land in Holt county to satisfy a mortgage held by Ida S. Miles, a resident of California. They attack as usurious that part of the contract that provided that if interest was not paid when due it should bear 10 percent interest until it was paid. They said this deprived the holder of any right to any interest. The lower court held the contract valid.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Sigma Nu fraternity is planning a series of entertainments for alumni members from out of the city who will be in Lincoln to attend the football game. On Friday evening a dance will be given at the chapter house chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dobson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry and on Saturday evenin ga banquet will be given. Among the alumni honored will be Ralph Brehm, Talmage; Fred Bosking, Norris Williams, Fay Pollack, R. W. Thompkins, Gene Dinsmore, William L. Randall, Marvin Meyers, Clarence Parsons, Omaha; Henry Burke, Elmer McGinnis, Norfolk; Paul McManigal, Albert E. Walling, Glenwood, Ia.; Edward McMonies, Lyons; Andrew Schoeppel, Ness City, Kas.; L. A. Yochum, C. L. Youchum, Ashland; Thomas Mackey, Richard Mackey, Ainsley; Hugh H. Drake, Kearney; Bryon Hooper, Holdrege; Clarence Mackey, Hastings and Robert Hawley, Fort Collins, Col.

Phi Alpha Delta fraternity will have its fall party at the Lincoln hotle, Saturday evening. Decorations will be suggestive of the fall season and will include cornstalks, pumpkins and bright, autumn leaves, interspersed with the fraternity colors, purple and gold. A screen on the platform in front of the orchestra will typify an autumn scene. About one hundred and fifty couples have been invited. The chaperons will be Prof. and Mrs. Lauritz Vold, Prof. and Mrs. John P. Senning and Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Barbour. Out-of-town guests who will be here for the homecoming events and the fall party will include Wilbur Aten, Holdrege; Mr and Mrs. Carl Adams, Sidney, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Davis, Guide Rock; Mr. and Mrs. Vance Doty, Scribner; John A. Carrigan, Blair; H. T. Pressly, Clarinda, Ia.; and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman G. Cross, Omaha.

Albert E. Long, Omaha representative of the Farm Implement Journal, a former Lincoln newspaper man, was in Lincoln Friday, looking after business matters. He reported that implement manufacturers have hopes of a much better business to come. Country stocks are very low and in many instances dealers have carried no stock but have ordered from manufacturers as sales were made. A few concerns showed an increase in sales last year but most of them showed a decrease. With stocks so low, and sale volumes at such low ebb for a long period it is felt that the demand must grow with the coming of the next season and that better business will follow. "The farmer who will kick on paying forty dollars for a cultivator is now buying corn picking machines that cost ten times as much as the cultivator," he says.

Mrs. E. M. Cramb entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon Friday at the University club, honoring Mrs. Leon Crandall of Los Angeles and Mrs. Harry Doubrava of Beverly Hills. The guests, who numbered fourteen, were all Fairbury friends of Mrs. Crandall and Mrs. Doubrava. Those who came from Fairbury for the luncheon, in addition to Mrs. Doubrava who is visiting there, were Mrs. Norris Cass of Chicago, Mrs. B. W. McLucas, Mrs. John Heasty, Mrs. George White and Mrs. Ethel Nellis. The other guests were Lincoln women who formerly lived in Fairbury, and the group spent the afternoon informally with reminiscences. Fall flowers, with salvia, chrysanthemums and zenias, decorated the luncheon table.

FILMS SHOW WAR SCENES

LINCOLN AUDIENCE SEES WHAT THEY WERE LIKE.

Put on at the Orpheum for a Preview and Approved by Those Who Saw Them.

The government war department films that were brought by airplane to Lincoln, Thursday, from Washington, D. C. were shown to a selected audience of Lincoln people at the Orpheum theater Thursday night. Approximately 200 were in attendance.

When the boys came back from the world war, they didn't talk about it. They didn't want to tell the home folks about their experiences. The group of Lincoln people who witnessed the pre-view of the government war film, "Powder River," which was flashed on the screen Thursday night can understand why. The boys couldn't tell it. It was something each person had to see for himself.

Seeing "Powder River" is one way of getting the story the boys could not tell. Widely divergent expressions of opinion were voiced by members of the selected audience which included Lincoln city officials, state officers, members of the press, clergy and heads of civic societies, numbering approximately 200. Pacifists and ardent militarists, included in the audience, alike contended the screen version of the world war obtained at the cost of the lives of eleven members of the U. S. signal corps was one which fully confirmed their particular views.

Sair Mayor Zehrung: "It is a picture every person in Lincoln should see, since thru no other way can we who did not get to the battle front ever be made to realize the true meaning of war."

Rev. S. S. Hilscher, pastor of the Second Presbuterian church pronounced the picture "an awful yet true representation. I chose to interpret it as a terrible indictment of war, and as such I approve it." His co-worker, Dr. W. T. Elmore, pastor of the First Baptist church said: "Everyone should see it. Of great historical value and of great value to make htis 'a war to end war.'"

Major Sidney Erickson, regular army, and commandant of the university R. O. T. C., stated: "A wonderful picture of real historical and educational value. It makes one feel glad that he is an American."

"This picture makes me want the league of nations more than ever. It has a graphic title but I think 'Lest We Forget' would be a better," is the way Helen McDonald, member of the democratic state central committee, expressed her thoughts on "Powder River," adding, "I certainly will see it again."

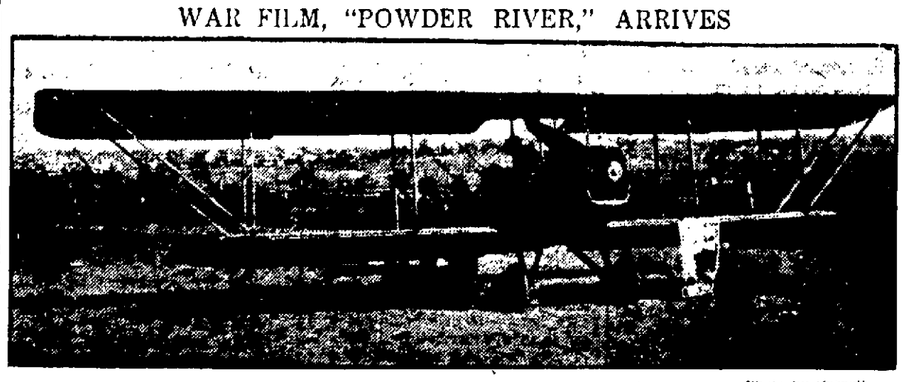

"A wonderful series of war pictures," was the comment of Chancellor Avery of the state university. Chancellor W. P. Aylesworth said: "The pictures are of thrilling interest and great historical value."

J. O. Moore, commandant of the soldier's home, Milford, Neb.: "The films are fine and vividly remind me of Antietam and Chancellorsville, '62 and '63."

After declaring that "Powder River," is thrilling, Chief Justice Morrisey, of the state supreme court said, "to fully appreciate what our boys went thru you must see this picture," and Will Owen Jones added, "One has but a faint conception of the dreariness of war until he sees these pictures."

At frequent intervals from ex-service men who were 'over there' could be heard exclamations of "I remember that air fight"—"It's the real thing"—"I was there," and so on. Fifteen hundred feet of German submarine film taken from the captured U-35 and which was to have been a part of the permanent German war records was used as a preface to the main picture. Richard L. Harris post of the V. F. W., commanded by Jack Matthews is showing the picture which will run the whole of next week at the Orpheum.

WAR FILM, "POWDER RIVER," ARRIVES

Historic government war film arrived in Lincoln late yesterday via air route and in time for pre-view last evening to a selected group of state, city, church and other officials. Stanley Bennett, officer of Richard L. Harris post, V. F. W., under whose auspices "Powder River" is being screened receives film from Aviator Chambers.

OMAHA COMMITTEE QUIZZES BRYAN

Adjutant General Paul Also Asked About Alleged Efforts to Insure Guard in Foreign Company.

OMAHA, Oct. 17.—The greater Omaha committee, thru W. A. Frazer chairman of the committee on development of Nebraska industry, today sent questionnaires to Governor Bryan and Adjutant General Paul asking information regarding alleged efforts on the part of Paul to insure national guard members in a foreign life insurance company.

The letter charges that Paul, as head of the national guard, on July 25 last sent out circulars to all members of the guard urging them to take out group insurance in a selected company which has headquarters in another state.

Frazer demands to know why consideration was not given Nebraska old line and fraternal companies.

Representatives of all the Nebraska insurance companies are meeting at the chamber of commerce today to join in the protest of the great Omaha committee it was said.

According to Frazer the matter of insuring guardsmen came up at a meeting of the greater Omaha committee called recently to consider indorsing a plan to raise funds for a national guard building in Omaha.

It was pointed out that if all the 1,700 guardsmen were insured according to the proposed plan, it would mean the placing of about $4,000,000 of insurance.

The questions asked Paul by Frazer were:

Who selected this insurance company?

By what authority was it selected?

Was Governor Bryan consulted and did he approve the plan?

If Governor Bryan had no knowledge of this plan, under what authority did you act?

Why were Nebraska life insurance companies ignored?

Frazer, who is head of the Woodmen f the World, one of the largest fraternal insurance organizations in the country, declared his questions were not propounded in an effort to injure the governor politically. He said that replies from the governor heretofore have been contradictory, and have all been signed by Bryan's secretary. He asks the governor to sign the next letter in person.

Adjutant General H. J. Paul, to whom the Omaha association of insurance companies directed a letter asking for an answer to questions bearing upon the insurance of the Nebraska national guard, said Friday he would have his statement completed by Saturday and would make it public.

REPUBLICAN BUDGET TOTALS $3,000,000

$25,000. General Dawes, Republican vice presidential candidate, gave $10,000, and James A. Patten, Evanston Ill., noted for his famous wheat corner, gave $20,000. Among the easterners to contribute heavily were Mortimer L. Schiff, J. B. Duke, Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Owen F. Roberts, a total of $25,000.

J. P. Morgan and company contributors were Dwight Morrow and Thomas Cochrane. They gave $5,000 each.

MAIL CLERKS IN SESSION

literature was sent out "with the hope that it would be used." In answer to another question from Borah, Baker said there was no "ambitious plans" for future publicity.

Baker was then dismissed and the session was adjourned pursuant to the call of Senator Borah. An executive session is to be held this afternoon.

Borah said he understood that Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Senator LaFollette, who charged the republicans with planning a huge "slush fund" to swing the election would not be here until late tonight or tomorrow and for that reason decided to adjourn the session at this time.

The data supplied by the republicans, democrats and the LaFollette-Wheeler committee will be scrutinized in private to determine the witnesses to be summoned. Only partial information was received from the democrats, and Clem Shaver, national chairman, may be summoned from the east to give further details. If Shaver is not heard at the Chicago session he probably will be called before the meeting in the east.

Fireworks is expected when Frank P. Walsh, Kansas City, attorney for Senator LaFollette, head of the independent ticket, appears before the committee. LaFollette charged the republicans with raising a huge slush fund to "swing the election."

Walsh is understood to be ready to amplify LaFollette's charges and at the same time level a fiery attack on the republican managers. C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, mentioned by LaFollette, will come in for considerable attention from Walsh, it was stated. Walsh was expected for the opening session, but he failed to appear. Borah expects him some time today.

Some of the sources of the republican funds will come under fire of the LaFollette-Wheeler party, Congressman Nelson, chairman of the party, indicated.

Borah brought out that leading bankers and manufacturers contributed sums ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. William Wrigley, jr., chewing gum king, contributed vast number it was found that 97.7 per cent received salaries of $2,400 or less per annum.

"The employes of the postal service appreciate very much the great interest shown by the public and the press in connection with this pending legislation, and we feel confident that this interest will be continued to the end that the postal employes may receive a living wage."

H. H. KOHLSAAT IS DEAD

Noted Journalist Succumbs to Heart Disease no Washington Visit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—H. H. Kohlsaat of Chicago, noted journalist, died at the home of Secretary of Commerce Hoover today of heart trouble.

Kohlsaat had been visiting at the Hoover home since last week. He wass ticken Tuesday morning. His wife and daughter were with him at the end.

Kohlsaat came to Washington ten days ago to attend the world's series as a guest of Commissioner Landis. He seemed unusually tired and accepted the invitation of Secretary Hoover to rest a few days at the Hoover home here.

On Sunday and Monday of this week he suffered from severe headaches. He came down to breakfast on Tuesday but about 11 a. m. collapsed with paralysis and sank steadily from then on.

Mrs. Kohlsaat and two daughters —Mrs. Potter Palmer, Chicago, and Mrs. Sheppard, St. Paul, arrived here Wednesday to be with him.

"Mr. Kohlsaat was a valued friend of ever ypresident since McKinley," said Hoover today. "He always refused public office but has given himself unremittingly to public service. Those of us who enjoyed his friendship mourn deeply a personal loss."

THIEF TAMPERS WITH SAFE.

Damage amounting to about $10 was done at the W. R. Boyd Printing company, 125 North Twelfth, some time Thursday night. How the thief gained entrance is not known. The safe was unlocked but several money drawers were not. These were "jimmied" and left in the alley by the marauder who took nothing. No money is kept in the safe, Mr. Boyd stated.

John Barrymore, actor, was sued for $2,500 and the return of the manuscript "Poe" based on the life of Edgar Allan Poe by Sophie Treadwell, playwright.

HUNDREDS ATTEND FEEDERS' MEETING

Comprehensive Program Presented at Agricultural College for Live Stock Growers.

Attendance at the annual stock feeders' day program at the agricultural college gave promise Tuesday morning of exceeding all previous records. More than one hundred and fifty from all parts of the state were present for the morning program, two hundred and fifty were present by noon, and double that number was expected to be on hand for the afternoon exercises.

Speakers scheduled to address the stock men in the afternoon were:

R. C. Pollock, managing secretary of the national livestock and meat board of Chicago, speaking on "The Livestock and Meat Industry"

George Christopher of Brownlee, discussing the spaying of heifers from the standpoint of the cattle producer.

Dr. C. H. Day of the U. S. bureau of animal husbandry addressed the assembly upon the effect of judicious feeding in redusing or eliminating livestock diseases, and the importance of preventing diseases by good care rather than waiting until the disease occurs and then attempting to cure it.

The feeders, practically all of whom arrived by automobile, visited the cattle pens at the agricultural college farm and inspected the "show" cattle and experimental pens during the last morning. Again in the afternoon they went to thme stock judging pens and spent the remainder of the afternoon there, following the speaking program.

Saturday has been designated "Omaha day" at the agricultural college. Arrangements have been made to entertain several hundred men of the cattle industry from that city.

Citizens Gravel Streets.

HARDY, Neb., Oct. 17.—The streets of this town are being graveled, all business men, citizens and farmers of the communiey, donating their work, teams and wagons on the project, and gravel is being hauled from a deposit near town. Dinners are being served to the workers in town daily and Saturday, when the graveling is expected to be finished, a barbacue dinner and entertainment will be held. The main street is completed and all cross streets are being surfaced. A road out of town, joining the Golden Rod highway, is also being graveled. Gravel will bep laced on the Golden Rod west from here to meet the work done this spring out of Superior for four miles Gravel is also being placed on the road leading out of town over the state line.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, cresote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

Unable to Tell How Much Money Would Be Available During His Term for Building State Highways.

George E. Hall, secretary of finance under Governor Bryan, gave out a statement Friday in which he says that Adam McMullen, republican candidate for governor, is not well advised in making the statement that "in the last year and a half the road maintenance department at the state house has been entirely wiped out and practically no road building had been done in that time until in the last month when numerous contracts were awarded just before election."

Mr. Hall says that the maintenance of state highways is done "by the counties under state supervision and is the same and being done the same as during former bienniums. A little more money is being spent by the state on maintenance than formerly, but there are more roads to be maintained than heretofore."

Mr. Hall says that the reason why no road building contracts were let during the year 1923 was that until the settlement of the suit involving the question of whether deficits for the preceding biennium were to be paid for out of the appropriations for the current biennium, Governor Bryan could not know how much would be available, since whatever that deficit proved to be it meant double that much less because there would be no matching of the amount from a federal appropriation. He says the delay cannot be blamed upon the governor, but the previous administration responsible for the tangle.

During the last year and a half, says Mr. Hall, $3,221,000 has been paid for building federal and state highways. This does not include sums directly paid out by counties. Because of lowered prices more road building is being done for this money than in former years. He adds:

"More federal money is being obtained and used than the legislature made appropriations of state funds to meet because many of the counties have made appropriations for road building to meet federal aid. Of the above amount $750,000 has been received from counties and paid out, and about this same amount has been received from Federal government and paid out to meet the county money, or $1500,000 more road work has been done since July 1, 1923 by Governor Bryan than the legislature made provisions for. The following contract lettings have been made:

February, 1924	$ 804,401.28
April, 1924	995,051.28
August, 1924	420,575.12
Scattering	1,566,107.04
Total	$3,786,134.72

PROGRAM RESTS WITH PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Upon the popularity of government securities with the American investing public depends the fate of the treasury department program for paying the $21,000,000,000 United States public debt in twenty-five years, according to Charles S. Dewey, assistant secretary of the treasury. Steady retirement of the public debt, Dewey believes, is necessary to bring about lower taxes. With government expenditures cut to the bone under the budget plan, Dewey points out that interest on the public debt is the largest single item in the budget, amounting in 1924 to nearly $1,000,000,000, or more than one-fourth of all expenditures.

YOUTH HURT IN CRASH

Robert Grady, Delivery Man for Brigham Cleaners, Sustained Gash on Forehead.

Robert Grady, delivery man for Brigham cleaners, sustained a bad gash on the forehead and was dazed when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by George Hill, 1625 B, at Twenty-sixth and O Friday forenoon. The motorcycle was demolished.

Grady was taken to the Lincoln sanitarium where his wound was dressed by Dr. Olney. His condition is not considered serious altho he was still dazed by the shock Friday noon. Mr. Hill was driving north on Twenty-sixth and Brady west on O. Witnesses stated that the auto cut the corner at the intersection.

HAD TO TAKE IT TO APPRECIATE IT

Mrs. McDonald Had Heard Others Praise Tanlac — Her Experience Converted Her.

"Although I had heard Tanlac praised a great deal I had no idea it was such a fine medicine until I took it myself," recently said Mrs. Anna McDonald, 633 Julien Ave., Dubuque, Ia.

"My appetite had just about deserted me and I was so run-down that I fairly ached all over from tiredness. Palpitation and shortness of breath followed my meals and what I suffered from headaches, nervousness and dizziness was almost as bad as being right down sick. I hardly knew what restful sleep was and had become pretty well discouraged over my condition.

"Before I had taken Tanlac a month a surprising change for the better had come over my entire system. And I felt thankful beyond words when my troubles went away and left me feeling so strong and well. My health is so good now that life is a real pleasure, thanks to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Divided action featured the finish in grain futures on the board of trade today.

Wheat closed higher all around. Values recovered from an early dip on an active trading market. Foreigners bought on dips. On bulges profit taking was met.

There was heavy buying of corn on an earlier dip due to reports of large export inquiries at eastern seaboard. Renewed selling developed however when no business was worked and values sagged off a fraction.

Oats was dull with trading light. The market lacked features.

Higher provisions close was due to some foreign business.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Grain futures were irregular at the start of business on the board of trade today.

Wheat bulls, still confident of better export buying strengthened holdings and sent bread grains up sharply. It is expected foreigners will take advantage of the lower levels in today's market.

Good growing weather and improved crop reports continued to disturb those long on corn. A moderate setback followed early profit taking. July option was up a fraction.

Oats followed corn. Nearby deliveries were lower the demand as yet insufficient to care for the increased movement. July was slightly higher.

Provisions opened steady, higher hogs offsetting lower cables.

Grain Market Opinions.

Clement Curtis & Co.: Foreign news continues bullish.

J. S. Bache and Co.: Corn should work irregularly lower.

Chicago Tribune: Traders are disposed to look for further slight reaction. Wheat at $1.50 for December is more of a two-sided proposition. There is an apparent disposition to take profits every time December gets above $1.50 and May $1.56. Cables reported liberal reselling of wheat yesterday at prices below replacement cost. Corn has a weak undertone. Lower prices expected and this may make it difficult to bull wheat for a few days if corn declines. Bullish sentiment in oats has waned for the present. Export sales of wheat were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels; rye, 200,000 bushels; little barley reported sold. Chicago handlers sold 445,000 bushels wheat to exporters.

Journal of Commerce: Members of the board of trade yesterday approved the proposition for cotton commission rates. The latter will be $12.50 per 100 bales when the price does not exceed 25c a pound, when above 25c, $2.50 additional will be charged for each 5c or the portion of 5c over that figure. Rates to members one-half of the non-member rate. Trading will begin soon after November 1. Wheat and rye bulls lost none of their confidence during yesterday's break. Many of them took advantage of the recession to add to their lines. The rally made in wheat in last few minutes was due to heavy buying attributed to Curten. J. P. Griffin, in long review of the coarse grain situation reaches the conclusion that corn cannot possibly be maintained above $1 per bushel.

Stein Alstrin: Coarse grains may meet further liquidation. Wheat appears in a strong position.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Until Winnipeg wheat competes with us no sustained decline is likely. Corn condition has been discounted.—Lamson.

Argentine Report.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 17.—Weather continued clear and warm. Exports have fallen off. Clearances of wheat this week show moderate increase. Foreign demand for corn active.—Lamson.

Foreign Cables.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 17.—Wheat opened today 1@1⅛c lower; at 2 p. m. ⅝@¾c lower; closing 1½@1¾c lower. Corn opened today ½c up; at 3 p. m. ⅝c up; closing today ½c up.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 17.—Wheat closed here last night unchanged ½c up; wheat opened today 1¼c lower. Corn closed here last night unchanged; corn opened today unchanged. Oats closed last night unchanged; oats opened today unchanged.

Stock Market Opinions.

Jackson Bros. & Co.: We believe the liquidation is over.

Thomson McKinnon: Outside of political doubt, we have the basis for optimism.

Clark Childs & Co.: Good buying of oils continues one of the features.

Ware & Co.: The next move should be upward.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Little encouragement was given the bear party by the behavior of today's markets. From the outset the general list displayed a rallying tendency which at times gained considerable spirit. Short coverings naturally played an important part in the improvement.

That Wall street now has little doubt as to the elections was demonstrated by the lengthening of the odds on Coolidge to 4 to 1.

Already the business pace is maintaining a satisfactory rate. Despite the Jewish holidays, freight traffic in the week ended October 4 was at the best levels of the year, while loadings of grain and merchandise were the heaviest in history.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Carloadings for the week ending October 4, reflected the influence of the Jewish holidays but were still less than 1 per cent below the best levels of the year, demonstrating the high rate of business activity throughout the country.

A five stocks continued to display relief from selling pressure in the early dealings. Further recovery was scored by most of the representative issues under the leadership of New York Central, American Can, Corn Products and other issues in which liquidation for the Allen estate was heaviest.

HOLD KIWANIS CONVENTION

Fifth Annual District Session of Iowa-Nebraska Clubs in Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 17.—The fifth annual district convention of the Iowa-Nebraska Kiwanis clubs opened today with an address of welcome by Judge Truman S. Stevens of the Iowa supreme court.

Governor Kendall, who was scheduled to give the address, could not be present.

The annual message was deliverered by Sidney M. Smith of Council Bluffs. Smith pointed out the growth of the Kiwanis clubs over the United States from one club several years ago to 1,254 at present time with 92,000 members.

The Iowa-Nebraska district has 53 clubs with a membership of 3,422, according to Smith.

Raymond A. Crossman of Omaha, international trustee, addressed a Kiwanis luncheon at the council of members meeting this noon.

HOSPITAL MEN ORGANIZE

Association for Institution Heads Formed at Kansas City.

Chairman A. E. Allyn of the Nebraska board of control has returned from Kansas City where he participated in the organization of the Midwest hospital association, an organization for members of state administrative board, superintendents of state hospitals for insane, feeble-minded, tuberculosis, and orthopedic institutions. Twenty represenattives from institutions in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri attended. The next meeting will be held at St. Joe, probably in May. The object of the organization is to further ways and means for the better care of state wards in hospitals. W. P. Fulkerson, of Jefferson City, Mo., was chosen president. He is president of the Missouri board in charge of the eleemosynary institutions. Dr. W. S. Fast, superintendent of the Nebraska hospital at Hastings, was elected vice president. F. A. Carmichael was chosen secretary-treasurer. He is superintendent of the Kansas hospital for insane at Osawatomie.

BULL TRAIN STILL SHOWING

McCook Made a Holiday of Its Appearance There on Friday, Says Report.

Local Burlington offices received reports of the pure bred sire train from McCook Friday which indicated that the people of that division point of the road were making a real holiday out of the appearance there of the pure bred sire train. The day began with a big parade headed by the band in which the Kiwanians and Rotarians took a part. A big barbecue put on by the business men was put on at the city park and a program was carried out. Stores were closed for a part of the day.

The sire train showed to 2,500 people at Benkelman and to 2,350 at Trenton.

SCHOOL HOUSE DEDICATED

Jefferson County Replaces Building Forty-five Years Old.

A new school house in East Bower, District No. 62, ten miles north and two miles east of Fairbury, Jefferson county, was dedicated Thursday afternoon. The school opened in the new building September 8. The building replaces one that had served the district forty-five years.

The structure is frame with a full cemented basement and furnace. It cost $3,600 and was built by a Jansen firm.

The speakers at the dedication were John M. Matzen, state superintendent, and County Superintendent Eva B. Shuman. Music was furnished by a community chorus and drills were given by pupils. Dinner was served in the basement. Lily Devore of Lincoln is teacher, Frank Abel, director; Earl Nash, moderator; H. C. Blobaur, treasurer.

ADVICE TO ADVENTISTS

Bishop Wells Declares Preachers Should Not Joke or Jest or Eat Harmful Food.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 17.—"Ministers in the Adventist church must render a terrible account before God for defilement. They must break away from every sinful gratification just as readiliy as they give up tobacco, tea, coffee and pork," said Bishop G. W. Wells of Nashville, Tenn., here today.

He led the evangelistic meeting for the leaders of the Seventh Day Adventist church in world conference here.

Joking and jesting by ministers are misdemeanors, he said, and for ministers to eat food that would injure their bodies is as serious an offense in the eyes of the church as viciousness or deceit.

"I believe that many Seventh Day Adventist ministers will be lost in hell and also many Adventist lay members because they have not lived as they profess," he said.

AWARDED FOR AN INJURY.

Thomas Tuder is given a total award of $46 for an injury caused by straining the muscles of his back when lifting heavy boxes in the warehouse of McCord Brady company. The warehouse is at Hastings. State Compensation Commissioner L. B. Frye finds that the employe who was injured is suffering from disease which has no relation to the injury which was inflicted October 11, 1923. The compensation is for temporary disability caused by the injury. Nothing is allowed for the present diseased condition of the workman. The award also carries with it reasonable pay for medical services rendered at Hastings for a period of five weeks and expense of a medical examination.

Let Contract for School.

WYMORE, Neb., Oct. 17 — The building contract for Wymore's new brick high school was let at a special meeting of the board of education with twenty bidders here Thursday. George M. Robertson, of Lincoln, was the successful bidder, his figure being $110,000. The Berquard Lindleaf Plumbing company of Omaha were awarded the plumbing contract for $22,000. Specifications have been drawn and all plans are completed. It is expected that work will begin on the new building the first of next week. The structure will be erected on the present school block and will stand west of the present building and have an east frontage. The present building was erected in 1882 and is now obsolete, badly in need of heavy repairs, and is too small for the present school population.

Burlington Estimates Show Better Than Government Totals.

A recent report compiled by Burlington officials for their guidance holds that the government estimate of the corn yield in Nebraska this year, 209,000,000 bushels is conservative. In fact reports show a yield for the state in the neighborhood of 225,000,000. Last year the yield was 272,000,000, while the five year average is 190,000,000. The federal estimate for the nation shows a shortage in yield as compared with last year of 588,000,000. Accepting even the conservative estimate Nebraska shows a big increase in yield while the country at large shows a decrease.

The wheat estimate shows 59,782,000 bushels for the state in 1924, almost twice the yield of the year before, while the country at large sows an increased yield of 70,000,000 bushels.

The potato yield is given at 8,505,000, or 300,000 bushels less than last year; hay, 3,500,000 tons or 300,00 tons less than last year; beets, 683,00 tons or 40,000 tons less than last year.

NEBRASKA NEWS.

Nebraska City—Gladys Kreider, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Kreider, was severely burned from her head to her knee on the entire right side of her body here Thursday when she attempted to build a fire by pouring kerosene on cobs in a stove in her father's paint shop. She was alone in the building at the time and ran into the street with her clothing ablaze. The fire was extinguished by passersby and the girl was rushed to a hospital.

Notice of School Bond Election.

Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of the School District of the City of Lincoln, in the County of Lancaster, in the State of Nebraska, that an election will be held within said city by the qualified electors of said School District on November 4, 1924, being the date of the regular general election of the State of Nebraska for said year, at such regular election, between the hours of 8 o'clock A. M., and 8 o'clock P. M., of said day, for the purpose of voting upon the following question:—

"Shall the Board of Education of the School District of the City of Lincoln, in the County of Lancaster, in the State of Nebraska, be authorized to issue $3,000,000 of the negotiable Bonds of said School District, bearing interest at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, which Bonds shall be paid in a period not exceeding 40 years from date, and shall be made payable at such times within said period and shall be issued in such denominations as shall be determined by the Board of Education at or prior to the sale of said Bonds; the Bonds to be dated as determined by the Board, but subsequent to the date of their authorization by the voters of the district; and shall the Board of Education of said School District cause to be levied annually, a tax sufficient for the payment of said interest and the principal as the same becomes due, the proceeds of said Bonds to be used for the purpose of erecting, equipping and furnishing new school buildings and for the purchase of additional school grounds and sites needed in said District, both principal and interest of said Bonds to be payable at the office of the Treasurer of such School District, the Bonds to be signed by the President and Secretary of said Board, and to have attached thereto and to each of them the seal of said School District, such Bonds to be offered in the open market and sold to the highest bidder for not less than par value on the dollar?"

The ballot of said election shall have printed thereon, substantially, the following:—

"Official Ballot, General Election, November 4, 1924, School District Ticket, School Bond Proposition to be Voted on," and shall contain the foregoing question with the following:—

[ ] I vote FOR said Bonds and FOR the levy of said tax.

[ ] I vote AGAINST said Bonds and AGAINST the levy of said tax.

Those wishing to vote in favor of issuing said Bonds, and the levying of said tax, shall place a cross in the square opposite the words "I vote FOR said Bonds and FOR the levy of said tax."

Those wishing to vote AGAINST the issuing of said Bonds and AGAINST the said tax shall place a cross in the square opposite the words "I vote AGAINST said Bonds and AGAINST the levy of said tax."

The polling place for said election shall be the regular polling places within the corporate limits of said city [illegible]

The State Journal is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The State Journal as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standards of honesty.

The lowest rate is secured on a seven-day order.

Each advertisement has full twenty-four hour day's service, Sunday Journal gives one day's service; the Morning Journal and Evening Journal combined give one day's service.

All abbreviated words, initials and numbers, including indexing word and address in ad, are counted.

No advertisement accepted for less than twenty-four cents the first insertion and the regular rates applying for subsequent insertions.

Ads ordered for the week may be stopped before expiration and will be charged only for the number of times run at the rate earned.

All ads are placed under their proper classification for the benefit of both the reader and the advertiser.

Errors in ads should be reported at once as The Journal will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

Men and Things

Our guess is that one of the reasons why President Coolidge is certain to poll a very large vote is that he is not engaged in racing about the country making political speeches that are compounds of truth and misinformation and bewilder rather than inform the voters, but stays on the job and leaves it to the voters to decide. He is neither kidding himself nor the voters. He is not calling the reporters in every few minutes to tell them of some neat slap at the opposition that he has just thought of; neither is he boasting that he is certain to be elected. He doesn't know any more than does Davis or LaFollette what is going to happen on November 4th. He is probably just as hopeful as these gentlemen say they are, only he doesn't make us tired claiming everything in sight.

Why don't we adopt some such sensible scheme as confining the presidential campaign speechmaking to a limited area, either in four or five states or in a certain part of each state? Inside these fences these fellows who find great joy in making speeches might cavort themselves all they pleased and not annoy the rest of us, who have work to perform and who dislike to see business interrupted for four months out of every forty-eight for such a piffling business as listening to campaign speeches. The southerners are smarter than we are; they have put up a sign saying that they have decided in advance how they are going to vote. Nobody bothers them after that. You don't hear of candidates campaigning that section.

Mr. LaFollette seems greatly distressed over the fact that prosperity has come to the farmers of the middle west without his having had anything to do with it. So he is coming out here to tell them that they are mistaken; that they cannot have any real prosperity until he is elected president or has raised a few more political rumpuses. He says that the small advances of a doubled price of corn and a nearly doubled price of wheat are not going to help the farmer any. What they need is a dose of what he carries, which must be administered by himself. Congress turned down all but about fifteen or twenty of the various bills for farmer relief, but they didn't happen to adopt the LaFollette remedy. What a lot of piffle a public man feels he must emit!

About the most inaccurate news of a campaign is that given out at national headquarters, and the reason is that every leader who visits there forgets that his real duty is to tell the managers the truth and the whole truth and who remembers his own importance. The other day the democratic national committee solemnly gave out a statement from National Committeeman Mullen of Nebraska in which he said, to emphasize that there is no disaffection in this state from the democratic ticket, that he did not know of a single democrat who was going to vote for LaFollette—and here they are on every hand. The LaFollette state chairman—we mean the one in office as we write—is a well known democrat. Mr. Mullen knew better, we hope: even tho that statement leaves him out on a limb.

As showing how easy it is to manufacture facts, consider the case of the labor leader from Washington who journeyed all the way to Lincoln to tell a credulous audience that the railroads had purposely caused a shortage of cars, thus causing a decrease in general business, which made for unemployment and thus make impossible the eight hour day. An utter absurdity, as anybody who knows anything about business or railroading would know, but this man believed it and doubtless he made others believe it. How was such a "fact" manufactured? Probably in this way: The man asked himself how he would have gone about it to defeat an eight hour day proposition, and this was his answer. If he had known something about business principles he would have evolved a more rational theory. But he did the best he could.

ABE MARTIN

Th' reason why paupers are so blamed scarce under prohibition is because they git poisoned before they kin qualify fer th' poor house. What th' average father can't understand is why th' public schools don't teach his boy what an archipelago is instead o' puttin' it up t' him.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

10 Minutes to Answer This.

Take a variegated quartz, subtract a hinged barrier, add an English monetary unit, add a pebble, subtract a point of the compass, subtract numeral, add a place devoted to prayer, subtracted a resinous distillation, add a musical syllable, and the resulting letters will spell the name of a Filipino leader of an insurrection against the United States.

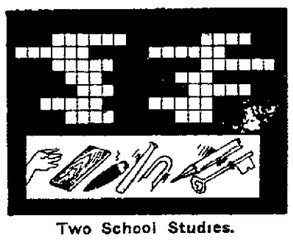

Answer to Yesterday's.

The butcher invested his $200 in nine chickens, eighty-six ducks and five turkeys, which yielded a profit of $42.50 at the prices and margins quoted.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

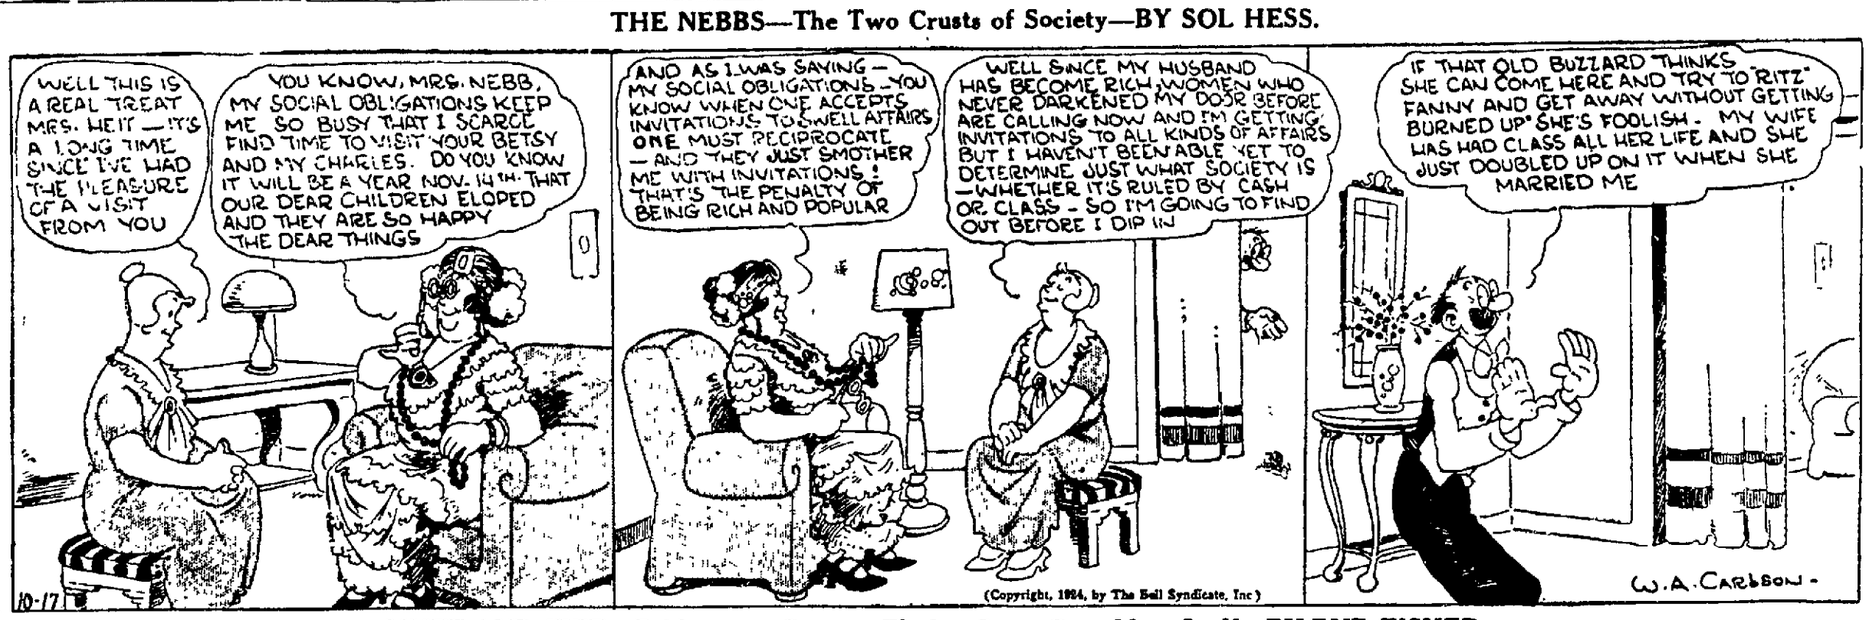

The young lady across the way says Mrs. Ferguson's nomination is a wonderful triumph for suffrage, but it doesn't seem likely that she can win, with President Coolidge, Mr. Davis and Senator LaFollette already in the field.
